Finns Call Men of 40 Years Into Service; First Order Outside Normal Classes

Military Sources Say Reds Are Thrown Back Close to Own Frontier; Further Air Raids Stand Is Praised

Finns Are Making Brave Fight, States Copenhagen Dispatch

Helsinki, Dec. 20 (AP)—Finland called to the colors all able bodied men of 40 years of age today as military sources declared Russian troops had been thrown back close to their own frontier on the Karelian isthmus and Soviet bombers renewed raids on Finnish cities. Dispatches from Kirkenes, Norway, near the Finnish frontier, said blizzards and 25 degree temperatures of below zero, Fahrenheit, apparently have paralyzed a Russian drive in northern Finland. The Finns, hitherto retreating in this sector, were said to be preparing a new fortified line south of Lake Inari. Today's mobilization order was the first going outside the normal classes of reservists. (The call probably adds 20,000 to the Finnish forces, which were authoritatively estimated at 400,000 at the start of the war. Finnish reports have placed the strength of the opposing Red army forces as high as 1,500,000.)

Finns Take Brave Stand

Copenhagen, Dec. 20 (AP)—Disputing every inch of ground, the embattled Finns took a stand against a superior Soviet Russian force at a "Lapland Mannerheim Line" in the Arctic today as anti-aircraft guarded against new air raids over Helsinki.

As the Kremlin sent new masses of troops and mechanized units into the invasion, loss of the 23,256-ton Russian battleship Oktabskaya-Revolutia (October Revolution) was reported in a Danish news dispatch. Unofficial but well-informed sources in Helsinki denied the warship had been sunk.

The battleship was completed in 1914 by the Czarist navy under the name of Gangut, the warship had a normal crew of 1,125 men and carried twelve 12-inch guns.

At least four Red army planes were shot down yesterday, the Finns said, in a renewal of aerial warfare over Helsinki in which 32 bombs were dropped in the suburban area, causing little damage.

The Finnish communiqué said their air force had bombed and machine-gunned supply columns and troop rest areas in Russian territory, while land forces made a successful offensive north of Lake Ladoga.

"The enemy launched heavy attacks in great force on the Karelian-isthmus front," said the communiqué, which did not mention the battleship. "The main Russian attack took place between the Moulajarvi and Kaukjarvi. The enemy suffered losses of men, and numerous tanks were destroyed."

Tanks Are Captured
At least 200 Russian tanks have been reported captured during the 21-day hostilities.

The Finns held in military secrecy the location of the new line in the gale-swept Arctic, but it was understood it would be south of Lake Inari near Ivalo.

Dispatches from this front said the Finns had been driven back, although Helsinki observers pointed out the advance of a motorized

Hamilton Won't Be Chosen Kansas Committeeman, Party Men Report

Washington, Dec. 20 (AP)—Chairman John D. M. Hamilton is likely to sever his connection with the Republican national committee when the party's convention meets next summer.

None of the men who have control of the party organization in Kansas expects him to be re-elected as the Sunflower State's committeeman.

Bitter Cold Halts Russians in North

Kirkenes, Norway, (at the Finnish frontier), Dec. 20 (AP)—Blizzards and temperatures of 25 degrees below zero (Fahrenheit) laid a paralyzing hand on Russian-Finnish military operations in the far north today. The Arctic winter set in with full force, making outdoor activity practically impossible. Russian troops previously had been reported driving hard toward the south from the Arctic coast, with the Finns retreating.

No fighting was reported this morning and no movement of troops or supply trains was seen. The Russian troops erected portable huts, but inhabitants doubted whether they will be sufficient protection against the Arctic cold.

Thousands Crowd St. Patrick's for Broun's Funeral

Monsignor Says of Noted Journalist He Never Met Anyone Equal in His Love of Mankind

New York, Dec. 20 (AP)—The story of Heywood Broun's conversion to the Roman Catholic faith—a dramatic account of the columnist's fear of death and his craving for spiritual peace—was recited at his funeral in St. Patrick's Cathedral today by the priest who baptized him there on May 26.

For half an hour after the solemn Mass of requiem had been sung, Monsignor Fulton A. Sheen, member of the faculty of Catholic University, Washington, D. C., spoke to the thousands of Broun's friends and admirers who filled the big church to the doors.

He disclosed that Broun received the name of Matthew when he was baptized, that he was the first person in the New York archdiocese to be confirmed by the recently elevated Archbishop Francis J. Spellman, and that on his death bed last week he received the papal blessing from Pope Pius XII.

He revealed another thing—Broun's bitter disillusionment a month after his conversion to the illiberal attitude, "so many of my liberal friends who spoke eloquently of freedom and would deny it to me."

"I have never in all my life," Mr. Sheen said, "met anyone who gave me such an idea of what our Lord's love for mankind meant. I have never seen a man who so loved his fellow-men, never seen such a great passion as his for mankind."

Broun, he said, came to him last February after an introduction by a mutual friend, and for 45 minutes talked of himself and his desire to become a Catholic. He was worried and dissatisfied, he told Mr. Sheen. He had tried psychoanalysis, he said, but that had been useless. He sought some harmony between himself and God, and felt it could be satisfied only by joining the Catholic Church.

"I am fearful," Mr. Sheen quoted Broun as saying, "that the church might not want me because of my radicalism. But I wish to say to you, father, that I am not a communist, I never was a communist, and I never will be a communist. I have too much intelligence."

Mr. Sheen said Broun advanced other reasons for his fear the church might reject him. One of them was his former advocacy and defense of birth control.

"I wouldn't defend it now," he was quoted as saying, "I've begun to see the beautiful spiritual side of birth."

Broun spoke to him of his fear of death, of how he awoke at night and thought of death and judgment, how he felt the necessity of doing penance.

"His instruction lasted 90 hours," the priest continued, "and often he would say to me, 'Father, don't delay. I must hurry. I may not live long.'"

Arauca's Skipper Says Ship Likely To Remain in Port

Captain Says New Freighter Won't Risk Open Waters; British Ship Fires Shot Near Shore

Fort Lauderdale, Fla., Dec. 20 (AP)—The captain of the German freighter Arauca, chased into Port Everglades harbor by a British cruiser, indicated today the ship might remain here indefinitely.

"It looks as if we might be here for two or three years," Captain Frederick Stenger said when told the German luxury liner Columbus had been scuttled off the Atlantic coast to avoid capture or sinking.

The 4,354-ton Arauca, on its maiden voyage, was intercepted yesterday by the eight-gunned cruiser Orion a few miles north-east of here in view of the ocean front.

Eye witnesses said the freighter headed full speed toward the beach. Captain Stenger asserted the Orion fired a warning shot across the Arauca's bow, about two and a half miles from shore, and signalled for the freighter to follow the cruiser eastward into Bahama waters.

"Instead of that," he grinned, "I went the other way." Plane Over Ship
Spectators said an airplane was catapulted from the Orion and circled over the freighter before a Coast Guard plane and an army neutrality patrol bomber arrived to watch.

The British cruiser waited off shore awhile, and then cruised slowly northeastward. Speeding toward the beach, the Arauca stopped abruptly just short of Hillsboro Reef and turned around. Witnesses said it then moved out near two southbound American passenger ships, and used one of them, the Shawnee, as a shield until it reached the Port Everglades harbor.

Eye witnesses said they saw no shots fired from the British cruiser, but a government worker, who declined use of his name, said he heard a dull explosion.

Captain Stenger said he had been given official assurance his ship might stay here as long as it liked because of its status as a merchantman.

In Washington, Secretary of State Hull asked for full information before deciding whether the western hemisphere neutrality zone had been violated.

The Arauca sailed from Germany in August, and left Vera Cruz, Mexico, December 14, with a general cargo. She carried a crew of 52.

Chicagoan Is Held On Slaying Count

Gun Enthusiast Is Said to Have Confessed He Killed Friend, 28

Chicago, Dec. 20 (AP)—A youthful gun enthusiast who successfully matched wits against seasoned detectives for 10 weeks, was held today on the confessed slaying of a one-time friend.

Capt. Thomas Harrison announced that Carl Erickson, 25, confessed last night that he shot and killed Herbert Wolff, 28, and then told how he defeated a lie detector test and circumvented a ballistics test of the death weapon.

Erickson is a member of the Illinois National Guard, the police said, having been with the 122nd Field Artillery for six years. He was considered an expert marksman.

But it was Erickson's imperfect knowledge of firearms that eventually led to the confession, Capt. Harrison said.

Hasbrouck Says Divine Paid Him

New York, Dec. 20 (AP)—Father Divine shied at buying properties in his own name for his cult "heavens" but personally paid for them, Arthur Hasbrouck, of Kingston, N. Y., testified today at the trial in Supreme Court of Verinda Brown's $6,500 equity action against the Harlem religious leader.

He testified he sold a 140-acre estate to Divine in 1935 for $11,000 and that Divine took $7,000 in small bills from a paper bag, pinned at the top, to pay him.

The evangelist has blandly asserted he owned nothing personally and never used money. Hasbrouck said the property was taken out in the name of "Abraham Augustus"—presumably one of Divine's followers.

Wagner Act Called Menace to Nation By Manufacturers

House Unit Work Termed Encouraging; Sweeping Changes Are Asked by Association

Washington, Dec. 20 (AP)—A committee of the National Association of Manufacturers declared today that the Wagner act and its administration by the National Labor Relations Board are "a menace to the national welfare."

Recommending sweeping changes the committee said the act was based on "false assumptions," which "have frequently been magnified and accentuated by one-sided and biased administration."

The manufacturers' statement described as "definitely encouraging" the work of the House committee investigating the labor board, which recessed its hearings last night after two committee members charged that board officials attempted to "entrap" the inland Steel Company into violating the labor law.

Nathan Witt, board secretary, denied this was true but acknowledged that, before any charges were filed, he had made suggestions to CIO union officials as to the "quickest way" to get a board decision on the case.

Witt Denies
Witt, who was the board's assistant general counsel at the time, said he was acting with the board's full authority and that his idea was to speed up action toward settlement of the 1937 "Little Steel" strike, involving Inland and other companies.

Rep. Routh (R-Ohio) promptly commented that if entrapment was not involved, he did not understand the English language. Rep. Halleck (R-Ind.) joined in the criticism.

Edmund M. Toland, committee counsel, then offered for the record court decisions condemning public officials who "lure" others into crime.

Charles Fahy, board counsel, assumed that the labor board is not precluded by the law from "looking into" situations, before charges are filed, where there are

United States, Argentina and Brazil Offered Aid to Eject German Warship

Montevideo, Dec. 20 (AP)—Diplomatic sources of high authority disclosed today the United States, Argentina and Brazil had offered armed aid to Uruguay for ejection of the German pocket battleship Admiral Graf Spee.

The informant stated that in the last ten hours before the German raider acceded to Uruguay's departure order Sunday, the United States assumed a leading role in the firm stand taken by representatives of the Washington, Buenos Aires and Rio de Janeiro governments in a meeting here.

The Admiral Graf Spee finally sailed out of Montevideo and was exploded by its commander, Capt. Hans Langsdorff, rather than again face the British warships it had battled last Wednesday.

It was explained that force, had it been necessary, would have involved the American nations concerned in putting teeth into the neutrality declaration of the Panama conference, which on October 3 warned belligerents away from the coasts in a wide belt

He told of disguising his ship to resemble the British battle cruiser Renown as he raided two oceans for allied merchantmen. (Picture by radio from Buenos Aires.)

Welles Predicts American Action; Condemns Soviet Says Belligerents' Failure to Respect Neutrality Zone Will Result in Committee

New York, Dec. 20 (AP)—A condemnation of Russia's invasion of Finland was coupled today by Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles with a prediction the Americas would take steps to prevent a recurrence of the British-German sea battle which resulted in scuttling of the Admiral Graf Spee.

Speaking at a dinner in his honor given by the Cuban Chamber of Commerce in the United States last night, he said:

"Certain events have taken place within the past few days which have shown a disregard by the belligerents for the rights asserted when 21 American republics in the Panama conference set up an offshore zone which should remain free of hostilities."

The undersecretary said that early next month, "there will come into being, with its seat in Rio de Janeiro, a permanent neutrality committee which will likewise remain in existence throughout the war period, and whose duty it will be to recommend to the American governments the decisions which should be reached in problems which are presented involving their rights and obligations as neutrals."

"I feel confident that after consultation between them, the American governments will promptly determine upon measures which they may take, which will make very much less likely in the future such disregard for their legitimate requirements and for their inalienable right of self-protection."

Columbus Is Scuttled 250 Miles Inside Zone Neutrality Act Sets

Study Is Begun by State Department to Learn Whether This Means Violation of Area

Washington, Dec. 20 (AP)—State department officials disclosed today that the German liner Columbus was scuttled almost 250 miles inside America's neutrality zone. Immediately they began a study to determine whether this meant that an act of war had occurred within the zone.

First information yesterday from Stephen Early, White House press secretary, was that the scuttling had taken place when a British man of war had come upon the big liner outside the zone. But later expert calculation of the ship's position given by the United States cruiser Tuscaloosa showed that the Columbus sank nearly 250 miles inside the zone, on a line due east of Washington.

This gives the American nations which fixed the limits of the zone in a meeting at Panama this fall their second problem of a possible violation, the first being the British-Graf Spee battle off the coast of Uruguay last week which, like the Columbus incident, resulted in the sinking of the German vessel involved.

In connection with the neutrality zone limits officials explained while the zone ordinarily was understood to extend about 300 miles off shore it went out, at some point to several hundreds of miles.

A state department official said he was uncertain whether the scuttling of the Columbus was an act of war. He indicated that information thus far received did not show that the British destroyer had shelled the vessel. All information was to the effect that the German crew had sunk its own vessel.

Another angle under study arose from the belief in official quarters here that the Columbus was overhauled on the much-travelled shipping lane between Buenos Aires, Rio de Janeiro and New York.

Officials have been inclined to regard with greater concern belligerent acts occurring on shipping lanes than acts occurring elsewhere.

Nears New York
New York, Dec. 20 (AP)—The naval cruiser Tuscaloosa, with 573 survivors of the scuttled German luxury liner Columbus, was reported off Ambrose lightship, just outside New York harbor, at noon (EST) today.

Hemmed in by a thick fog and drizzling rain, the vessel was expected to anchor outside the harbor until the weather cleared.

The speedy vessel's arrival indicated that she had escaped a storm that was moving up the coast in her wake.

Immigration authorities and naval officers conferred this morning to decide how to handle the arrival of the German sailors. Officials of the North German Lloyd Line, mourning the loss of the 32,581-ton vessel, also went into

Captain Hans Langsdorff Uses Revolver at Base Quarters Last Night; Talks to Staff

Body Is Found

Aide Discovers Act This Morning; Crew Is Told of Death

Buenos Aires, Dec. 20 (AP)—Captain Hans Langsdorff today shot himself to death "to share the fate of his magnificent ship," the German pocket battleship Admiral Graf Spee, scuttled Sunday in the River Plate while an allied flotilla stood offshore.

His body was found by an aide at 8:30 a. m. in his room at the Buenos Aires naval arsenal where he and more than 1,000 of his crew had been interned since arriving here Monday.

Langsdorff killed himself after a three-hour talk with the officers of his staff, ending shortly after midnight. Before he left them he made a complete circle of his comrades, shook hands gravely with each one and retired to his room, asking that he not be disturbed, since he was tired.

"From the first moment he made up his mind to share the fate of his magnificent ship," it was said by the embassy.

"Overcoming his intimate desire in consideration of responsibility resting upon him to ensure the safe debarkation of his crew composed of more than a thousand young men, and pending full knowledge of regulations to affect these seamen, he postponed fulfillment of his designs."

Hitler's Orders
At that time, it was believed, he had Adolf Hitler's orders to destroy his ship rather than take her again into battle with the British cruisers with which she had exchanged shots in an all-day battle last Wednesday off the Uruguayan coast.

Despite a presentment of death which other Germans as well as naval officers felt, Captain Langsdorff was almost constantly laughing and joking with his companions until he closed the door of his room last night.

Neither his fellow officers nor Argentine sailors and officers inside the arsenal heard the death shot, and there was no indication of the suicide until the aide entered the room this morning.

Captain Langsdorff, who was 45, the son of K. G. Wilhelm Langsdorff, a clergyman, will have a naval funeral with full honors according to his rank.

The embassy announced that the body would lie in state at the embassy. The naval funeral is to be attended by Argentine authorities as well as Germans.

Captain Langsdorff, a slight man, proud of the fact that there had been no loss of life aboard nine British merchant vessels he had sunk in the raiding expedition which preceded his ship's final battle, was detained in the naval arsenal after bringing his officers and more than 1,000 of his crew here in tugs.

He left behind the burning hulk of his one proud 10,000-ton ship, split asunder and on the bottom in 25 feet of water off Montevideo harbor.

Crew Is Told
At noon the crew, confined at the naval arsenal, were summoned and the announcement of Captain Langsdorff's death was made to them.

German embassy attaches said the captain's death had been expected since Sunday morning

Nazi Airman Tells Of Helgoland Raid

Schumacher Says Lessons in Two Campaigns Gave Germans Victory

Berlin, Dec. 20 (AP)—Lieut. Col. Karl Schumacher said today lessons which his squadron learned in the Spanish civil war and the Polish campaign turned the Helgoland naval base aerial battle with British bombers into a German victory.

Schumacher, the head of the pursuit squadron which engaged in Monday's battle, was decorated with the Iron Cross yesterday for his achievement.

German and British sources were in dispute over the outcome of the encounter. Germans asserted 36 British planes were lost, as against only German craft. The London air ministry said the British loss was only seven planes, and that 12 Nazi planes were brought down.

In a press interview, Schumacher said 52 Vickers Wellington bombers engaged in the dogfight with 40 German pursuit planes.

"The Vickers-Wellington is not as good a plane as ours. Ours can fight much better," he commented.

"Our ME-109 and ME-110 (Messerschmidt pursuit-destroyer types) are so fast that we were able to choose our attacking positions."

Forces Are Joined

A.F.L. and C.I.O. Combine in Campaign for Bigger Benefits for Idle

Washington, Dec. 20 (AP)—The American Federation of Labor joined the CIO today in a campaign to enlarge the benefits paid by the unemployment compensation system to workers insured against involuntary idleness.

The action came in the wake of a renewed expression of President Roosevelt's hope that the labor organizations would end their differences.

The chief executive told reporters yesterday that he had discussed labor peace with CIO Leader John L. Lewis and that although there was no concrete development in the conference, Lewis, too, expressed hope of a solution.

The drive for greater jobless insurance benefits was stimulated by A.F.L. President William Green, who asked all state federations of labor to help win congressional approval for an advisory committee of experts to examine the adequacy of the insurance system.

PORT EWEN NEWS

Auxiliary Christmas Party
Port Ewen, Dec. 20.—On Monday evening, December 18, the regular monthly meeting of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Port Ewen Fire Company was held in the fire house with 34 members present. Four new candidates were elected to membership. Minnie George Bonstall, Herbert Christian, Augustus Houghtaling and Webster Munson. The following committees were appointed for the year by the newly elected president, Mrs. George Edward Maines: Finance, Mrs. Lou Schultz and Miss Helen Schryver; sick, Mrs. John G. Reynolds; floor, Mrs. Howard Galbreth; refreshment, Mrs. Adolph Munson and Mrs. Reginald Van Leuven. After the business meeting the annual Christmas party was held. Santa Claus appeared with his pack of gifts and distributed presents to each member. The tables were prettily trimmed with appropriate Yuletide decorations. The favors consisted of miniature Christmas trees. Delicious refreshments were served and after a social hour the members left for home, having spent an enjoyable evening. The hostesses for the evening were Mrs. John T. Groves and Mrs. Reginald Van Leuven.

Entertainment at Church
Port Ewen, Dec. 20.—The Reformed Church Sunday School will hold its annual Christmas party and entertainment tonight at 7:30 o'clock in the church house. The public is invited.

Following is the program:

Carols by assemblage—"Joy to the World," "Silent Night, Holy Night,"

Village Notes
Port Ewen, Dec. 20.—Members of the Ever Ready Club are requested to bring articles for the cheer basket to the home of Mrs. Harry C. Jump tomorrow. Synops Council, Daughters of Liberty, will meet tonight in the lodge rooms of Pythian Hall. The Methodist Church Sunday School will hold its Christmas party and entertainment Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock in the church house. Members of the Dorcas Society are requested to bring articles for the cheer basket to Card's store by Friday.

Toys for infants, such as rattles and strings of colored wooden beads, should be painted with a harmless vegetable paint, and all celluloid bath toys should be of heavy quality, so that particles of celluloid will not remain in the baby's mouth when the toys inevitably find their way there. Dolls should be soft.

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

(By The Associated Press)
What? No Pearl?
Richmond, Va.—Sparky, a cocker spaniel, got a mighty expensive drink of water from his master, Thomas J. Hounihan. Mrs. Hounihan, occupied with baking, put her diamond ring and wedding band into a glass. Hounihan came in and gave the pup water from the glass. Something clinked against the pup's teeth. A veterinary X-rayed Sparky, spotted the rings and recovered them. Sparky was none the worse for it all.

Foiled!
Granby Station, Conn.—Proprietors of the general store here left their safe open and put a "safe unlocked" sign on it. Nevertheless, somebody broke in, took a quantity of tools and stamped envelopes, battered the dial from the safe and clammed the door. Now nobody can open it.

Rich Reward
Denver—Major Herbert W. Hardman, quartermaster at Lowry Field, tucked his wallet into his sock while dancing at a night club. The wallet, containing $1,000, dropped out. The major offered $100 reward. The finder mailed the billfold to the major, but sent along only $600.

The Hard Way
Fairfield, Calif.—Esther Sorenson 18 is learning to fly the hard way. Flying by instruments, she misjudged her location in dense fog, landed in a pasture, badly damaged the plane and jammed the doors so tightly she had to be pried out. Only five days before, she lost control and made a pancake landing which smashed the undercarriage. She was not injured either time.

Stainless Steel Is Used In Airplane Manufacture
New and expanding markets for stainless steel are being provided by the aviation industry, according to the Engineering foundation, research agency of the national engineering societies.

Several types of European military planes use stainless steel for standardized parts. This trend is gradually extending to the field of small and inexpensive private planes, one builder of such planes specifying stainless steel for rudders, stabilizers, elevators and fuel tanks. The ease with which stainless steel is welded enables airplane manufacturers to do away with rivets, which, although very small, have been proven by tests to make an appreciable difference in air resistance at the high speeds current in modern flying.

The report claimed that, although stainless steel is heavier than some of the light alloys now used, it compensated for this disadvantage in airplane construction by its strength. This characteristic, it said, in conjunction with the corrosion resistance, enabled stainless steel to be used safely in many thin sections, bringing the weight of the completed structure down to an equal basis.

The gradually increasing use of stainless steel in planes and the forecast of a much greater use can be logically deduced from the successful application and the highly satisfactory performance of the material in high speed, lightweight railway equipment, the report stated. While certain factors are important in the air which are irrelevant in surface transportation, there are also many points of similarity in the desired ends in both cases. Molybdenum, a metal improving steel's resistance to mineral and organic acid attack, and enabling steel to remain hard when reheated, is becoming increasingly useful in the manufacture of stainless steel.

Horrors of World War Led to Plastic Surgery
A thousand men without faces, victims of the World War, gave rise to the science and art of plastic surgery. First concern of the few great surgeons, who met this emergency by developing new skills, was restoration of function.

These men without faces could not chew. They could not swallow. They could not speak. Other men could not bring themselves to look upon such a horrible result of "man's inhumanity to man."

It was necessary to give the victims jaw bones, teeth, noses, throats, skin. It was a work of mercy to add artificial eyes, ears, pleasing contours. Imagination came into use, for mothers, in many cases, could not even supply photographs.

Psychological values of the repair work received scant attention at that time. Yet the healing of the spirit by the plastic surgeon is as remarkable as the wonders he performs on external appearances. The least vain among humans has a natural horror of looking repulsive to his fellows. A physical deformity is a great handicap in keeping a job, winning a sweetheart, making friends, finding happiness. Warped personalities naturally result from twisted bodies.

Dr. Henry J. Schireson, plastic surgeon of Philadelphia, tells of the great joy expressed by his patients who had been restored to natural appearance or given new beauty in the surgery. One of the most appreciative was a nun, victim of a Chinese plague, who asked his aid because she "frightened little children."

No. One Ism Hunter Martin Dies Finally Talks Way To A Place Among Headliners

The Dies committee has been producing a show unparalleled in recent times for bitter controversy and hilarious comedy. Now it's preparing its report to Congress, convening January 3, which must decide whether the committee shall be continued. Who is Dies? What has his committee done? Where's he going? These important news questions are answered in a series of three articles, of which this is the first.

By MORGAN M. BEATTY
AP Feature Service Writer
Washington—Martin Dies leaned forward, wide-eyed, like a child who'd just seen Santa Claus. "Amazing!" he said.

Right there before his eyes lay the front pages of dozens of newspapers, and his name was on every last one of 'em.

After seven lean years, with hardly a peep on page one, Martin Dies (pronounced DYES) had a right to be surprised. For at that precise moment in the fall of 1938, he was mid-stride of a leap into the beam of the national spotlight.

The springboard for that leap was the Congressional Committee Investigating Un-American Activities and Propaganda, of which the Texas representative was chairman.

Until that moment, Martin Dies had been a nobody on the national landscape. His distinction in Washington had been the presidency of the Demagogues' Club, that small coterie of word-casters who are always sounding off.

Publicity—At Last
Then within the short space of weeks, Martin Dies threw off obscurity and actually swapped punches with the political nobility—even with President Roosevelt himself. And there was no denying that Martin Dies' bite was as bad as his bark.

Today you can't laugh off Martin Dies. He is a national, even an international figure. When the head of the Dies committee turns on the heat, things sometimes happen. People like Earl Browder, the Communist, are indicted; Fritz Kuhn, the Nazi, is convicted of larceny; and Harry Bridges, CIO's West Coast big shot, faces a hearing for deportation.

Why this sudden vault to fame? And how?

A Series of Breaks
There are several reasons. Put them all together, and you have an imposing combination of circumstances that clicked. In the first place, Martin Dies hails from Texas. Big, blond, 38, lumbering, heavy-handed, he is the son of a typical Texas settler and a German-born mother, both of whom were substantial citizens. Red-blooded patriotism and spell-binding oratory came natural to him.

By 1938, Dies had gained himself some slight stature on the national scene as an alien-baiter, and a fellow who saw red every time he heard the word "Communism."

Dies is a friend of "Cactus Jack" Garner and the Garner-for-President people. Such a friendship would hardly keep a man off the Rules committee—that almighty steering wheel of Congress. Besides, Dies, a man with only eight years' service, is on that committee.

Add to these facts the nation's mounting interest in Communism and Nazism last year. Also that the LaFollette Civil Liberties committee of the Senate was persistently taking testimony indicting big corporations for using labor spies to prevent workers from organizing. Some Congressmen thought there should be an off-setting influence.

Shirts' Getting Dirty
And about the same time, the shirt crowd—the brown, the silver, the gold, etc.—were stirring things up in New Jersey, New York, California, and elsewhere.

In short, the time was ripe for an "ism" investigation, and things began to drop into place for Dies, like slot-machine cogs heading for the jackpot.

Contender for the distinction of having the isms was New York's Democratic representative, Samuel Dickstein, a Hitler-hater. But there were those who suspected Dickstein would not give all the isms their medicine in equal doses. Today Dies is accused, by the way, of accenting Communism.

One More Life
Albany, N. Y., Dec. 20 (AP)—New York's industrial accidents took one more life during November than the preceding month. Reporting a total of 120 men and eight women killed during November, the state labor department said the number was 30 more than in November, 1938.

MARTIN DIES OF TEXAS: . . . He found a spring-board

When the Rules Committee decided to vote out a resolution authorizing the ism hunt, Dies and Dickstein both had in bids. The Dies resolution rolled through. There are people who suspect that Cactus Jack Garner cooked up the whole business to pave the way for the Garner-for-President campaign. Neither Dies nor Garner have deigned to notice this heresy. Anyway, Congress voted Dies $25,000 and the third ism hunt of the decade was on. Tomorrow: Dies' Results.

Truck-Load of 'Boots'
New York, Dec. 20 (AP)—New York city, fighting against importation of untaxed cigarettes from New Jersey, had a truck-load of them in custody today—biggest haul since start of the drive. Police said the truck belonged to the Banner Rayon Dyeing Company of Brooklyn, and that Detective Hugh McGinn and Harold Miller had traced it from New Jersey to the company's premises. They said the driver, Vincent Manelli, 33, was arrested as the truck was being unloaded yesterday.

Kingston Pastor To Attend Chicago Preachers College

The Rev. Dr. Arthur G. Carroll, pastor of St. James Methodist Church, Kingston, has been honored by selection as one of three or four members of the New York conference of the church, to represent the conference at the College of Preachers, whose sessions will be held in Chicago next week. This will be the 19th annual session of the college, which will be attended by representative clergymen from various annual church conferences throughout the United States. Selections are made by secretaries of commissions on courses of study in the different conferences, who in the case of the New York conference is Dr. Allan MacRossie.

Instructors at the college will be well known figures in the religious world, without regard to denominational lines. The theme for this year's study and discussion will be "The Family of God." Last year the college took up the study of "Man."

George Russell Stricken at Home

George Russell, 76, who was found lying on the floor of his home, 12 Van Deusen street, about 7:30 o'clock Tuesday evening, was reported in serious condition at the Kingston Hospital, where he was removed by the police.

Mr. Russell was seized with a stroke while alone in the house. Neighbors attempting to enter the house to assist him found the doors locked, and called the police. Officers Burns, Fatum and Rode were sent to the house and were forced to break it.

Hearing Slated On City Budget

Mayor C. J. Heiselman said today that he planned to hold a public hearing on the 1940 tax budget some time next week. For several weeks the mayor and his staff have been busy working on the budget.

Under the provisions of the city charter the mayor prepares the budget and before it is submitted to the common council at its first regular meeting in January, a public hearing has to be held in December to afford the general public an opportunity to become acquainted with its provisions.

Simple musical instruments make popular gifts. Many of these can be constructed at home; drums are made of wooden bowls or painted coffee cans covered with rubber tubing; pie-plate tambourines are made by punching about a dozen holes around the edge of a pie plate and attaching jingle bells; and xylophones are made by nailing to a piece of rope five or eight sticks of smooth wood, graduated in size so that they give the notes of the scale when struck.

Byrd Expedition Takes Newest in Dairy Foods

Some new dairy foods, not yet on the market, will add variety to the diet of Admiral Byrd's men during their stay in the Antarctic.

The new products were made in the laboratories of the Federal Bureau of Dairy Industry and represent the efforts of dairy scientists to devise new ways to utilize skim milk and whey as human food.

The list includes a new kind of dried pea soup, made with whey powder; a new kind of wafer to eat with the soup, which is a mixture of potatoes, skim milk, and salt; and new kinds of candies that contain whey solids.

In addition, the bureau sent a quantity of American Cheddar cheese. The cheese was made and packaged in valve-vented cans, a process that represents a relatively new development in merchandising this type of natural cheese. Cured in the cans, which vary in size from 17 ounces to five pounds, this cheese forms no rind, does not dry out or shrink, and is more convenient for small servings than the usual bulk cheese or large size and odd shape.

The dried soup is a precooked dry powder which makes a complete soup when one can of the powder is mixed with four cans of water and boiled. It contains 65 per cent split pea solids, 25 per cent whey solids, and 10 per cent fat. It has the advantage of being easily transported and quickly prepared, and it also keeps well. The dairy scientists expect that the fat it contains will remain free of rancidity for at least a year at room temperature or below.

The skim milk and potato wafers are somewhat similar to potato chips, but contain no fat and therefore do not become rancid. The wafers are made by drying or toasting a mixture of boiled potatoes, skim milk and salt.

Two kinds of candy—caramels and fudge—were made by formulas that include 25 per cent whey solids. The whey candy is superior in food value to ordinary candies, because the whey solids displace some of the cane sugar and corn syrup. It contains extra milk sugar, milk salts, milk albumin, and water-soluble vitamins. Also it is slightly less sweet than ordinary candy.

McKenzie Tribute Adopted by County Volunteer Firemen

Tribute to the memory of the late Judge Henry E. McKenzie, for 70 years a volunteer fireman, was paid by the Ulster County Volunteer Firemen's Association meeting on Tuesday evening in Wallkill as the guest of the Wallkill fire department, when a memorial that had been prepared was unanimously adopted.

The volunteers voted to purchase $5 of Christmas Seals, and donated the sum of $15 to the Orphan Children's Christmas Fund. This fund is for the purpose of helping orphan children in the county who are with foster parents.

The question of liability of citizens at fires was discussed. The fact was brought out that citizens who are not members of a local fire department are not protected in case of death or injury while fighting fire.

It was decided to hold the January meeting at High Falls.

Memorial Resolution
The memorial resolution adopted in memory of Judge McKenzie outlined briefly his life and many activities. He was born in 1850 in Delaware county and as a boy took up his residence in Port Ewen, when his father, the late Dr. Edward McKenzie, moved his family to that village, and Port Ewen was Judge McKenzie's place of residence for his entire life, except for a brief period when, as a young man and starting the profession of the law, he resided in Kingston.

The resolution further read: Henry E. McKenzie, familiarly known to the members of this association, and to the people of his home community and the county generally as Judge McKenzie, was a distinguished and honored member of the Ulster County Bar, being at the time of his death, at the ripe old age of 89, the oldest member of said bar.

Judge McKenzie was a highly respected and public spirited citizen of the community in which he lived for so many years. He served for a long period of time as president of the Board of Education of the local school in Port Ewen as well as chairman of the Board of Fire Commissioners of his local fire district, and both of which positions he was filling at the time of his death. For upwards of 50 years, he served his township in the capacity of justice of the peace and police justice.

He took a keen interest in all public matters during his lifetime, and particularly in matters pertaining to the advancement and the uplifting of his local community.

"In any memorial, however, to be adopted by this association, the outstanding feature of Judge McKenzie's life, which must be here emphasized, was his love and devotion to firemanic matters. His reputation in that respect stands out as a guiding star and beacon to be respected and emulated by every present and future member of this association. As a mere boy back in the year 1868, he joined the old Eagle Hook and Ladder Company at Kingston, and was an active fireman with that company. He was the prime mover in the organization and creation of the Port Ewen Fire Department, in which organization he continued his membership until his death. He was a fire commissioner of the Port Ewen fire district from the time of its creation. He was honored with offices in the State Firemen's Association and other firemanic organizations. He was elected president of the Hudson Valley Volunteer Firemen's Association, an honor which never before had come to a resident of a community so small in population. As chairman of the Resolutions committee of that association, he gave for years untiringly of his time and effort at each convention to prepare and submit the memorable resolutions for which he became famous with that body."

Jobless Man Serves Notice He'll Be Spectacular Suicide

Pittsburgh, Dec. 20 (AP)—A jobless young man gave advance notice today that he would end "my worthless life in some spectacular way" at midnight Christmas Eve.

"In doing so," he said, "I hope I awaken the people of this vicinity to the fact that there are young people out of work who are also human, but are in that well known position of unemployment. If my act just brings employment to one young person I will have done more good by killing myself than I have been able to do throughout my whole life."

The death threat reached the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph in a letter bearing only the signature of "A Disappointed American." The newspaper got two clergymen to reply and published their pleas that the man give up his plan of self destruction and seek their help.

"Just a small letter to let you in on some news that is about to happen," penned the apparently desperate writer.

"I am a young married man with one child and a wife that in the four years that we have been married has been in the hospital six times."

"I have looked everywhere for work and in the present boom I thought sure I could find employment. But no."

"So before my son grows up

Each father and mother should plan Christmas gifts to meet his own child's needs by observing the youngster's special abilities and interests. The child's home and the opportunity it offers for various kinds of play also helps parents to decide what toys to provide.

SELF-RELIANCE

It is becoming increasingly apparent that the war is not going to solve any of our urgent problems. It has cut down unemployment to some extent but has done little in the way of providing permanent jobs for the millions who are out of work.

Analysis of the effects in this country of the first few months of war abroad should convince the wishful thinkers—as the more thoughtful realized from the beginning—that we must depend upon increased home consumption and a revival of domestic enterprises and investment for a return of prosperity and a real solution of our major problem of unemployment. In this connection, the following observations in the December review of business conditions by the National City Bank of New York are worthy of thoughtful consideration:

"The outlook for war business is still undetermined. So far this country has received few large orders, except for airplanes. If the war lasts long and the fighting becomes active, the demand for materials will increase. But for the near future, a more important consideration is the inaction of the armies, which now seems likely to continue through the winter.

"Exports to the belligerents as a group in October wear much smaller than last year, while those to Canada, Latin America and the Scandinavian countries showed heavy increases. Part of the rise in neutral orders following the outbreak of war was in anticipation of price increases or shipping difficulties, and this type of buying has now slackened to more normal volume.

"All these elements in the situation make it plain that the trend in this country for the next few months at least, will be governed chiefly by domestic influences. The outlook for that time is largely a question of home consumption, the inventory position, progress in new enterprise and investment and other factors hardly connected with the war."

BUDGET-BALANCING

National politics and pre-campaign debate turn again on fiscal policy. Candidate Taft promises to balance the budget within two years if he is elected, and President Roosevelt replies that that's fine, but will he please tell how it can be done.

This debate seems destined to continue till next November, and beyond. Some people may suggest that public budget-balancing lies in "the back of beyond." The present business expansion normally would be expected to straighten out public finances for the next fiscal year; but here's another war in Europe, threatening to become general, and Uncle Sam committed to a policy of expensive preparedness, and nobody knowing whether or not a new World War is developing.

War is always a spending spree, and so are preparations for war. All the nations now seem to be paying out more than they take in. Even Finland can't balance her budget now.

Yet conditions in America today are more favorable economically than they are in any other important country. If business continues as the prophets expect, and we confine our war operations to mere preparedness as everybody expects, we should be tapering off the deficits faster than we're taking on new expenses.

HEALTH IN THE AIR

The medical profession must interest itself in new problems caused by the development of aviation, says Dr. Alfred C. Reed, professor of tropical medicine at the University of California. Germs are transported along with passengers. Quarantine is difficult.

Those who fly, either as passengers or pilots, often must encounter swift and violent changes in climate, environment and altitude. Some of them are able to meet these changes. Others need the help of medical science.

Detailed information is now sought on radiation, air pressures, dust carriage and the rapidity of physical changes. The doctors intend to discover both the ills created and their remedies.

This is not an entirely new problem. Dr. Reed points out that automobile traffic brought to light health factors unrelated to actual injuries incurred in accidents. "Since man began to move about on this earth," he explains, "his forms of transportation have been changing constantly, and solutions always lag behind new problems of traffic."

Solutions may lag, but they do not forever remain behind. The indirect hazards of flying will be discovered and eliminated.

This may be known in history as the Era of Unbalanced Budgets. That is, unless the nations all make it permanent procedure. Eventually it might be against the law to balance anything.

It's depressing to follow, day by day, the war news of 25 years ago, and to note the parallels and wonder if we'll be doing it again 25 years from now.

First it was "Listen—the Wind!" Then it was "Gone With the Wind", and now maybe it's too late for anybody to write "Raising the Wind."

For the black-out, Finns substitute the white-out, as Polar bears and penguins did long ago.

THAT BODY OF YOURS

By James W. Barton, M.D.

(Registered in accordance with the Copyright Act.)
DENTISTS USING ELECTRO-THERAPY

It was a real advance in the treatment of surgical conditions when electro-therapy was introduced. To be able to remove tissue, prevent bleeding, and to sterilize or prevent poisoning of the tissues was a source of great satisfaction to surgeons in cases where the sharp knife, excessive bleeding and the spreading of poison were likely to happen. It is interesting but not surprising therefore that another branch of medicine—dentistry—is taking over this electro-therapy treatment.

Dr. W. H. Scherer, professor of oral medicine, Texas Dental College, states that electro-therapy is asserting itself as a definite part of dental surgery. "Coagulation of the blood (preventing bleeding) by the use of high frequency current is an improvement over the older methods of chemical cautery. The coagulation by high frequency current is similar to the type produced by mineral acids but is a better type and more easily controlled than that by mineral acids."

The advantages of these electro-surgical methods in the treatment of pyorrhea and other diseases of the gums are: (1) small amount of tissue lost, (2) helpful flow of blood to the affected part, (3) for healing purposes; (4) better permanent results in the healing of deep and shallow ulcers caused by the pyorrhea; (5) ease of control, (6) the electrodes can get to the necessary spots very readily and keep the tissues sterile (clean), (7) less granulations or overgrowth of healing tissue, and (8) no bleeding or swelling.

As we think of the gentleness and tenderness with which the dentist in treating pyorrhea, with the knife and yet all the infected tissue must be removed, it can readily be seen why, in many cases, the use of electro-therapy gives the best possible opportunity to remove this infected tissue completely without damage to the tissues, without causing bleeding, and with a good chance to sterilize the tissues.

Other "surgical" treatment given by electro-therapy in dental conditions are (a) removal of excessively developed tissues, lengthening the exposed gum surface for application of crowns, treating tender or sensitive spots, removing fibrous growths and irregularities of gum surfaces before putting in bridge work.

Twenty and Ten Years Ago

Dec. 20, 1919.—Last day of the season was battling with the ice, eight miles below Poughkeepsie. The total registration of voters in Ulster county as completed by the election board was 21,795.

Miss Ruth Maben Bushnell and Parker K. Brinlier married.

Annie, three-year-old daughter of Peter Weiman of Lake Katrine fatally burned while playing with matches.

Death of Mrs. Ralph Blum of Broadway.

Death of Miss Jennie V. Brown of Sycamore street.

Kingston High School defeated Catskill at basketball by a score of 30 to 21.

Mrs. Marion Hudler elected worthy matron of Kingston Chapter, Order of the Eastern Star.

The Ulster County Auto Club received the new emblems for 1930.

Dr. L. E. Sanford, health officer, called attention to four cases of scarlet fever among the pupils of School No. 8.

Social Security

Editor's Note: Every worker who has a Social Security account number card should know how the recent Congressional change in the Old-Age and Survivors Insurance provisions of the Social Security Act apply to him or her. For the benefit of readers of The Kingston Daily Freeman, the Social Security Board's field office manager for this area, Charles E. Burke, has prepared a series of brief articles, each explaining one point of the new provisions.

All employment except for certain specifically excluded types of work are covered under the old age and survivors insurance provisions of the Social Security Act. For instance, cooks, maids, butlers, chauffeurs and gardeners are not covered. If these same workers should obtain jobs in hotels, restaurants, service stations or in other commercial or industrial establishments, they would be covered by this Federal insurance system.

Covered employment, generally speaking, is a job in a factory, shop, mine, mill, store, office, American ship, national or State bank, building and loan association, or other place of business.

Jobs not covered are, in general, as follows: Agricultural labor, domestic service, government work, work for an educational, charitable or religious non-profit organization, work on railroads (this is covered by the Railroad Retirement System), work in the fishing industry; work as a newsboy, certain kinds of professional work, work performed for a son, daughter, spouse, or for a parent if the child is under 21.

For further information call or write Charles E. Burke, Manager, Post Office Building.

Whitfield, Dec. 19.—The Whitfield school will present its Christmas entertainment Wednesday evening, December 20, at 7:30 o'clock. A Christmas supper will be served directly after the exercises.

The Reformed Church Sunday school will hold its Christmas exercises in the church Saturday evening, December 23.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Whitman were Kingston visitors Saturday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Lawrence of Newburgh spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Barley.

MARLBOROUGH

Marlborough, Dec. 17.—Miss Carolyn Ryan, a Freshman at Houghton, has been chosen chairman of the annual Jennings House Christmas party. Miss Ryan is a graduate of the Marlborough Central High School class of 1938.

Mr. John Condon was hostess on Monday evening to the T. H. E. Card Club. Prize winners were Mrs. Howard Upton and Mrs. Grace Graves.

Mrs. Frank Johnston entertained the Card Club Tuesday evening of last week, and this week the group will meet at the home of Mrs. Olive Kniffin.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Nicklin entertained at a dinner party Monday evening. Their guests were Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Barnes, Mr. and Mrs. Will Clark and Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Carpenter.

Mrs. Louis Lounsbury of Montrose visited relatives in town last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Brown have gone to St. Petersburg, Fla., where they will spend the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Casseles recently entertained Mr. and Mrs. Percy Bunker of Claverack.

Mrs. James Hopkins of Waterbury is visiting at the home of her sister, Mrs. James McGowan, for a few weeks.

Albert Lyons has returned home from the Benedictine Hospital, Kingston, where he recently underwent an operation.

James Hannigan, Jr., is ill at his home with a severe cold.

Mr. and Mrs. Rodney Harrison of Garrison spent the week-end in town at the home of Mrs. Harrison's mother, Mrs. George DuBois.

Charles Quinn, Jr., student at Albany State College, is spending the holiday recess at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Quinn.

Robert Johnston, student at Sequoyama College, is spending the vacation at his home on West street.

Mrs. Jack McCarthy, who suffered a stroke a few weeks ago, returned to her home here Friday. Her condition is reported improved.

Mr. and Mrs. William Mummers, former owners of the Marlborough bakery, which they sold to the Schlusser Brothers, who have conducted a bakery in Mineola, L. I., for the past three years, have sold their business and will retire.

At the annual election of the Marlborough Men's Club, held last week, Charles Zacharie Rogers was named president. Mr. Rogers is also president of the Parent-Teacher Association. Others elected to office in the Men's Club were John Quimby, vice president; Edward L. Dalby, recording secretary; John Schellenger, corresponding secretary; Wilbur J. Haviland, treasurer. The meeting was held at the home of John Gow on Western avenue. Refreshments were served by a committee including the Rev. Claude McIntosh and S. B. Wygant.

Mr. and Mrs. S. Barrett Wygant and daughter, Betty Lou, have left for North Carolina, where they will spend a few weeks visiting relatives.

Ground was broken last week on Western avenue for the new building which will house the equipment of the New York Telephone Company for the new dial phone system to be installed here.

George L. Hossfeld, ten times winner of the world's championship in typing, gave a demonstration last Thursday morning in the Central School. He amazed his audience by typing more than 200 words a minute.

Edward Barry of Jersey City is visiting his sister, Mrs. Ray Barry, for a few days.

Business is not only more cooperative and cordial with the consumer, but has discovered that the consumer likes beautiful things. There soon will be increased opportunities for persons with some art training.

House Committee Would Like to Know Why Press Associations Did Not Carry Ohio Court Rebuke of N.R.A.

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Dec. 20.—Why was the news of an important decision of the circuit court of appeals at Cincinnati, which reprimands the labor board for its conduct in the Empire Furniture Company case, omitted from the wires of all three major press associations of the United States?

The House committee investigating the labor board and the Wagner act has been trying to find the answer. Questioning of Philip G. Phillips, regional director at Cincinnati for the labor board, has brought out the fact that Mr. Phillips did claim to have prevented in another instance the publication of a new article in one of the Cincinnati papers and that he had access to various newspaper reporters in the American Newspaper Guild, an affiliate of the C. I. O., and boasted that he felt grateful to Guild members "for putting us wise to what goes on behind the scenes."

There is no evidence in the record of the Smith committee here that Mr. Phillips or any members of the American Newspaper Guild were in any way responsible for the omission from American newspapers generally of the important facts in the circuit court of appeals decision in the Empire Furniture Company case.

But there still is no explanation as to why this case did not get circulation until more than two weeks later, when attention was called in these dispatches to the omission. The opinion of the court was rendered on November 8. On that same afternoon, the Cincinnati Times-Star published a brief routine item which made no mention of the rather sensational quotations in the decision. The next morning the Cincinnati Enquirer printed on page ten a routine article with one quotation from the decision, but omitting all reference to the fact that a unanimous court, including Judge Florence Allen, a liberal judge widely known for her sympathies with labor, concurred in the opinion of Judge Simons, or to the fact that the opinion accused the board of having attempted to substitute "surmise" and "guess" for "proof" in evaluating the testimony.

The three national press associations are dependent, as a rule, for their clues to important news developments on the accounts in local newspapers. The press associations do not employ special staffs to cover the courts or other sources of news from which only occasionally a sensational piece of news might emanate. If the local papers "play down" or bury an article, the chances are that it will be overlooked by the correspondents and the press associations who supply out-of-town newspapers and services.

Mr. Phillips, on the stand, told the House committee that he had inquired at the office of the Associated Press about the Empire case when criticism was raised about it two weeks after the decision was handed down, and that the Associated Press men said the item was omitted because of the congestion of news and concentration of attention on a local election the day of the decision in question. But Mr. Phillips was not asked and did not volunteer the information as to why all three press associations overlooked the same item. The reason probably was that, by a reading of the routine headlines and cursory report of the Empire Furniture case as published in the Cincinnati papers, the significance of the decision was not apparent.

The episode may be just a curious coincidence due to faulty reporting by the Cincinnati newspapers, which failed to note that the labor board had been reprimanded for reaching conclusions on "surmise" and "guess" rather than proof, and it may be a coincidence, too, that the regional director of the labor board had expressed previously in memoranda to the board at Washington that he felt he could keep out of the press certain items "deleterious" to the board. It so happens that no copy of the Cincinnati decision was available to the press at the office of the labor board in Washington either, until November 20, but Mr. Phillips claims he sent it to Washington a day or so after it was handed down on November 8. The board here does not consider that it is supposed to issue to the press court decisions on labor matters that happen in other cities, though heretofore it has not failed to make these decisions available promptly. The delay of nearly two weeks may have been an incident in the routine of the labor board's operations in Washington. The fact remains that, both at Cincinnati and at Washington, a momentous decision, reproving the labor board in terms far more severe than had been issued before and from judges who were friendly to labor's rights, did not actually get comprehensive coverage by the press associations of the United States or conspicuous attention from the newspapers at Cincinnati where the opinion was handed down.

The evidence derived from Mr. Phillips' testimony that members of the Newspaper Guild were in close touch with him and that he claimed they helped him "kill" stories has already been challenged as to accuracy by the members of the Cincinnati Chapter of the Newspaper Guild, who naturally resent any inference that they would permit their C. I. O. affiliations or trade union status to color by omission or otherwise the news reports of the American press.

Stamps In The News

Almost daily new reports tell how philatelic plans are being upset by the European wars. The Philatelic Journal of Great Britain reports that the celebrations planned for the centenary of the introduction of postage stamps in 1840 have been cancelled. It states:

"Great as the disappointment of all philatelists must be that this important centenary cannot be adequately celebrated, they will sympathize with those indefatigable workers of the Royal Philatelic Society who have labored for the past two years to make the exhibit an outstanding success and now find their efforts are to be unproductive."

In America several stamp groups felt the United States should commemorate the centenary of that first postage stamp, issued by England. But now it is widely held that the U. S. should wait until 1947, which is the centenary of its own first postage stamp.

Canada's postal officials announced that due to the war and the disruption of ship sailings, a large consignment of Canadian postage stamps due from England have been delayed. They were 2 and 4-cent denominations badly needed for the Christmas season.

In the emergency, Canada has overprinted the Royal Visit stamps with 2 and 4-cent surcharges. The public is being warned that necessary measures are being taken to conserve the supply available.

Russia New Sets

set honoring the poet, M. J. Lermontov. All three stamps show portraits of him at various stages in his life. Their values will be 15k, 30k, 45k.

The stamp on the right is one of three stamps of identical design honoring the scientist N. G. Chernyshevski. Only the values change. They are 15k, 30k, 60k.

Mallomats
A new mechanical device for the automatic mailing, pre-paying and cancelling of letter mail has been tried for some months by the New York Post Office and has been well received. A network of these "automatic" postoffices is now projected.

WITTENBERG
Wittenberg, Dec. 19.—Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Elting left Saturday for St. Petersburg, Fla., where they will spend the winter months.

Miss Louise Stone is reported recovering from her recent illness.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Elting and Mrs. Everard Short enjoyed an evening last week playing pinchle with Mrs. Gus Shultis.

Miss Carol Meier has returned to spend an indefinite time with her sister, Mrs. W. K. Shultis, after visiting her brother for several months at Red Hook.

The Wittenberg public school will hold a Christmas entertainment in the church hall on Friday evening at 7:30 o'clock.

Nelson Shultis made a business trip to Troy Friday.

HIGH FALLS

High Falls, Dec. 20.—Mr. and Mrs. Millard Roosa of New Paltz spent Sunday with Mrs. Roosa's sister, Mrs. Hiram Ghean.

Mrs. Elizabeth Ailsford of The Clove, spent a few days with Mrs. Mary Stephen during the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis Wager and Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Cahill spent Sunday with Mrs. Stanley Steen.

Robert Clearwater, Roberta Clearwater and Margaret Schoonmaker and Russell Simmons of Poughkeepsie spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Schoonmaker.

Mrs. Ernest Jansen and son, Kelton, who is home from the Berkshire School for the Christmas vacation, motored to Pennsylvania Saturday to visit Mrs. Jansen's mother, who is ill.

Mrs. Victor Lewis and son, Franklin, called on Miss Cynthia Van Wageningen Saturday.

Miss Helen M. Carver of Cortland, N. Y., died there recently. Miss Carver was a former school teacher in this village and had many friends here. She had been retired for several years due to ill health.

Russell Schaner and Charles Taylor of Westwood, N. J., spent the week-end with Miss Betty Hagerty and Miss Mary Steen. Sunday a birthday dinner was served in honor of Miss Hagerty's birthday at her home.

KRIPPLEBUSH

Kripplebush, Dec. 19.—The community Christmas party will be held in the Jr. O. U. A. M. Hall Friday evening, December 22. Each one attending is asked to bring sandwiches for their own family. The ladies of the church are asked to furnish cake. Santa will arrive in time to distribute the gifts.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Christiana and family were entertained at dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Winchell Friday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. William Schoonmaker and Granville Van Demark and family entertained friends from Long Island over the week-end.

The public school will have its Christmas tree and exercises on Thursday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Japhet Christiana spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Claude Christiana and family.

Bonus for Mexicans

Mexico City, Dec. 19.—Mexico's oil industry workers are receiving a $2,600,000 bonus this year, and the government is going to see they do not lose it to confidence men.

More than 500 soldiers were reported converging on the Vera Cruz and Tampico fields to protect the 18,000 workmen affected. The bonus was raised from a saving account in which the workers contributed 10 per cent of their wages and the government-controlled industry, a similar amount.

Checking Santa's Christmas Stock

Mayor C. J. Heiselman's Christmas Cheer Committee was busy today at the Municipal Auditorium checking dolls for delivery on Christmas Eve. The committee members, left to right, are Mrs. Stanley Matthews, assistant general chairman; Miss Gertrude Dempsey and Mrs. G. D. Logan of the toy committee, and Mrs. Harry B. Walker, general chairman of the committee.

ACCORD

Accord, Dec. 17—Mrs. Gross B. Schoonmaker, who was operated on at the Kingston Hospital Tuesday, December 12, is recuperating nicely.

Supervisor Howard Anderson returned home from the Kingston Hospital Sunday.

Edward Davenport is able to be about the house a few hours each day.

Mrs. Helen Anderson, who has been ill for several weeks, is able to be about her home.

Brian, Barrie and Wayne Lawrence, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Lawrence, are reported ill.

David Mickle, who recently underwent an operation at the Benedictine Hospital, is reported improving.

Mrs. May Klesler spent Wednesday afternoon and evening calling on friends in town.

Miss Hazel Barringer is assisting Mrs. William Anderson.

The Reformed Sunday school will hold its annual Christmas exercises on Saturday evening, December 23. The public is invited.

Sons of Legion Meeting

An important meeting of the Sons of Legion will be held Thursday, December 21, at 7:15 p. m. sharp. An invitation is extended to all veterans of the World War to attend. One of the prime movements of the group was the formation of a Drum and Bugle Corps, which now has 57 members.

Seals Different, Judge Explains

In response to several inquiries that have been received at campaign headquarters regarding the American Red Cross and the red double-barred cross of the tuberculosis Christmas Seal Campaign now going on, Joseph M. Fowler, general chairman, today issued the following statement:

"In 1920, by mutual agreement, the alliance between the American Red Cross and the National Tuberculosis Association was dissolved. This has appeared on all of the National Tuberculosis Association Seals, which are now known as Tuberculosis Christmas Seals and not as Red Cross Seals."

"It was in 1907 that Christmas Seals were first sold in the United States, in Wilmington, Delaware, by Miss Emily Bissell, who wished to raise funds for a little open air hospital, where poor victims of tuberculosis were brought back to health. With $40 Miss Bissell had 50,000 stamps printed. That was the basis of the campaign as we know it, a campaign that has done so much to rouse a nation against disease."

The committee in Ulster county began its work over 30 years ago. A tag day was held. Four thousand dollars were contributed and the first tuberculosis hospital in New York state was established. Our Ulster county sanatorium today enjoys the reputation of being one of the finest in the state.

About the same time a public health nurse was employed. This county tuberculosis nursing service has gone on without interruption since its inception. The nurse is still maintained by the committee, visiting in the homes of patients and contacts, assisting at chest clinics and with the tuberculin testing program of high school students.

The educational program of tuberculosis and the social diseases is carried on by the committee on tuberculosis and public health.

Camp Happyland, operated annually during the months of July and August, for Ulster county contact and undernourished children is also financed by Christmas Seals.

To satisfy that impulse for pounding and to provide an opportunity to exercise the muscles, a rattle-thumper is suggested. This is a stick with a spherical sponge-rubber base, about the size of a small orange. It is firm enough and yet soft enough to prevent injury. A set of small beetle-ware bowls also gives pleasure to babies.

Liquor Dealers To Hold Meeting

The first annual banquet of the Ulster Liquor Dealers' Association will be held at the Governor Clinton Hotel, Tuesday, January 23, under the auspices of a committee which is putting forth every effort to make it a memorable affair.

Chairman of the group, Jack Feye, and those members of the association working under his direction are William Fitzpatrick, George Westervelt, Emil Jordan. They report plans for the banquet are progressing nicely.

Prominent citizens of Kingston and communities throughout Ulster and Greene counties will attend the affair at which John Daley, state president of the Restaurant and Liquor Dealers' Association, will be one of the principal speakers.

Dinner music will be furnished by Phil Toffel's orchestra.

The figures are of cardboard, too, dressed in cloth and the candles are discarded rollers obtained from an oilcloth counter in a dry goods store.

Columbus Is Scuttled 250 Miles Inside Zone Neutrality Act Sets

a huddle to decide what action to take.

The line can prove the vessel was not armed and that she carried no naval men her survivors will be treated as castaway foreign seamen and will be granted 60 days in which to leave this country.

On Way to Ellis Island

Washington, Dec. 20 (AP)—After burning and abandoning their luxurious 32,000-ton ship at the approach of a British man-of-war, 579 crew members and officers of the German liner Columbus were being sped to Ellis Island today by an American cruiser.

The Columbus, which failed in a desperate dash for Europe from Vera Cruz, Mexico, already was settling when the U. S. S. Tuscaloosa completed a dramatic rescue at dusk yesterday 400 miles east of Cape Henry, Va. Only two German sailors were known to have been lost.

The survivors, including nine women, were due in New York harbor about 4 p. m., eastern standard time, for examination by immigration officials. If they are found to be bona fide merchant seamen, they can remain at liberty in the United States for 60 days.

But if an inquiry should determine that they are navy men or that the liner was armed, temporary detention or even internment for the duration of the war might be ordered.

The Columbus foundered outside the American neutrality zone, although the Tuscaloosa was on neutrality patrol when she sighted the ship, ablaze from bow to stern.

In terse wireless messages to his superiors, Capt. Harry A. Baid of the Tuscaloosa reported that the liner was being scuttled and that a British destroyer was nearby, although there was no evidence of any fighting.

The crew already had pulled away from the sinking vessel in 22 lifeboats, and the American cruiser stood by until all the occupants were picked up. The liner's sea valves were open, to hasten her sinking.

The Columbus was found only a few hours after the German freighter Arauca outran a British cruiser and steamed into the harbor at Fort Lauderdale, Fla. Captain Frederick Stengler of the 4,354-ton Arauca said that a warning shot was fired across the bow when his ship was within United States territorial waters.

The Arauca left Vera Cruz last Thursday shortly before the Columbus sailed openly for Europe laden with oil and with enough food for a 50-day voyage.

Dachne's Statement

Mexico City friends recalled that Captain Wilhelm Dachne, bald-headed commander of the Columbus who was interned in Australia during the World War, said before leaving Vera Cruz: "They'll never get my ship—I'll look out for my crew."

The Columbus was the first big merchant ship built in Germany after the World War, and was outstripped later in the fleet only by the Bremen and the Europa. She was 749 feet long and was equipped to carry 1,800 passengers and a crew of 750.

Two years ago the liner, which had been in transatlantic service, was refurbished for Caribbean cruises. A swimming pool was installed on a broad sun deck, along with an outdoor dance pavilion. The only evidence of her German ownership, aside from the swastika flag, was a huge portrait of Adolf Hitler over the main staircase.

Mexican officials said that while she was at Vera Cruz, several members of the crew deserted on the grounds that food was running low and that they were refused shore leave.

The belief was expressed in New York marine circles that the Columbus was ordered back to Germany because Nazi officials were elated over the Bremen's success in eluding the British blockade. Oslo, Norway, was given as the destination of the Columbus on her Mexican clearance papers.

Furnishings Safe

Vera Cruz, Dec. 20 (AP)—Indications the commander of the German liner Columbus foresaw the possibility he might have to scuttle his ship to escape British warships were seen today in reports that large amounts of valuable furnishings and equipment were transferred before departure.

Members of the crew were said to have worked eight days prior to their departure last Thursday in moving valuables out to the German freighter Hamelin, which took refuge here along with the liner.

At Mexico City, friends of the liner's captain, Wilhelm Dachne, recalled he had intimated to them he would sink the vessel, rather than let it fall into enemy hands. "They'll never get my ship—I'll look out for the crew," the captain was quoted.

Because of her size—the 749-foot vessel was the third largest of the Nazi merchant fleet—the Columbus was unable to enter Vera Cruz port proper, but lay outside the harbor, buffeted by winds. Launches had difficulty in bringing sufficient food supplies to the crew of 600.

There were unconfirmed reports the short-rationed crew became discontented over inability to obtain shore leave, and this was said to have been a factor in her departure.

Hitler Leaves Berlin

Berlin, Dec. 20 (AP)—Adolf Hitler left Berlin today presumably to spend the Christmas holidays at his Berchtesgaden home near Munich. Hitler usually celebrates Christmas Eve with more than 1,000 old guard party fighters in the Loewenbrau beer cellar at Munich. There was no definite information as to whether he would follow the same procedure this year. (On November 8 in Munich, Hitler escaped possible death by a few minutes when a bomb wrecked the Burgerbrau beer cellar a few minutes after he had left).

New Planes Ordered

Washington, Dec. 20 (AP)—The navy awarded a $20,016,699 contract for airplanes today to the Consolidated Aircraft Corp., San Diego, Calif. There were no details as to the number or type of aircraft involved.

Heller's Hand Injured

One of the police cars responded this morning to a call from the Reis gas station on Hurley avenue, where Daniel Heller of 11 Hurley avenue had suffered a deep cut on the hand. He was treated at the Kingston Hospital.

Spec Captain Kills Himself

when he gave his camera and other personal effects to a man in the embassy, saying: "Take these: I will not need them any more."

The crew received the news without demonstration, in a stunned silence.

Argentine authorities posted reinforced patrols around the naval arsenal, scene of the tragedy, and withheld further details of the affair pending a full investigation.

Capt. Langsdorff had brought himself and his men here aboard tugs for internment by Argentina after destroying his prized pocket battleship of Montevideo harbor Sunday night.

At first he had talked freely about his running battle with three British cruisers last Wednesday, in which he finally was forced into Montevideo harbor at nightfall. Last night, however, he indicated a different attitude.

"I do not desire to talk further," he said to interviewers. "I have talked so much I should now like to be quiet for the next three weeks."

Informed that the German merchant liner Columbus had been scuttled off Norfolk, Virginia, yesterday, Capt. Langsdorff had replied tersely, "This doesn't concern me."

The Graf Spee's officers, Argentina decreed last night, would be interned in Buenos Aires for the duration of the war. Capt. Langsdorff was staying at the Immigration Hotel.

The crew of approximately 1,000 men was ordered interned in the provinces, with the German government bearing maintenance costs of both officers and men.

The German government had announced that Fuehrer Hitler himself had ordered the Graf Spee scuttled, and that Capt. Langsdorff had carried out the order.

Alternatives at the time were for the 10,000-ton battleship, damaged by British shells from Wednesday's battle, either to be interned for the duration of the war at Montevideo or steam out to sea to meet the guns of allied warships awaiting to engage her.

Buenos Aires, Dec. 20 (AP)—A slight, alert sailor, Captain Hans Langsdorff made up in personality what he lacks in size.

He was the kind of a seafighter who would sink nine merchant ships—the number attributed to the Graf Spee before her raiding was ended by last week's naval battle—and then declare with delight that he was thankful no loss of life had resulted from the sinkings.

Langsdorff displayed a springy step and a pleasant smile when he paid formal calls on Uruguayan authorities after the Graf Spee reached Montevideo last Wednesday.

But the following day there was no smile, only a look of deep seriousness, when the bodies of 36 men were brought ashore from the Graf Spee for burial.

He stood at the center of weighty international questions involving the status of his ship and at a perhaps graver humanitarian problem—whether to risk the lives of more than 1,000 young seamen in a dash to sea past allied war-

Arrested

Ernie Kehler, alias Hass, 28, pugilist, is shown after his arrest in Toronto, Ont., in connection with the killing of Dr. Walter Engelberg, secretary of the German consulate in New York. Kehler, 24, Canadian-born, who allegedly signed a 15-page confession, was brought to New York today to face homicide charges. Handcuffed to two detectives, Kehler, who fought under the name of Ernie Haas, hid his face and crouched behind a cordon of police as he arrived at Grand Central Station. Assistant District Attorney Michael Kern, of Kings county, told newsmen that the case was "all settled." The Associated Press reports.

ships hovering off the Uruguayan coast.

"Adolf Hitler may give the orders," one dockside observer put it before the Graf Spee was scuttled, "but it will be up to Hans Langsdorff to carry them out."

From Hitler came orders to scuttle the ship, and Langsdorff did so without losing the life of any of his men.

Then the captain and most of his men sailed up the Plate river to Argentina and internment.

One of his enemies in the war at sea had this to say of him: "There is no mercy from Langsdorff when he is fighting to do, but when he is not fighting he is a fine gentleman."

It was Captain Patrick Dove, captain of the tiny British tanker Africa Shell, who said it. Dove knew, for he spent three months as an enforced "guest" aboard the Graf Spee after the Africa Shell was sunk.

Return Home

London, Dec. 20 (AP)—Princesses Elizabeth and Margaret Rose returned from Scotland today to spend Christmas with their father and mother, King George and Queen Elizabeth. It was the first time they had seen their father since mid-August, two weeks before the declaration of war against Germany.

Missing Hunter's Will Is Listed

The disappearance of five hunters, one of them a Kingston man, near Catskill on November 11, and the finding of the bodies of three of them in the Hudson river later, was recalled Tuesday when the will of Earl C. Loudenslager of Kingston, one of the missing men, was filed for probate with Surrogate Harry H. Flemming. Joseph H. Forman appeared in the proceedings for the Kingston Trust Co., named as executor and trustee under the will, which is dated July 9, 1936. Action in the matter will be taken on January 23, when citations are returnable.

The accompanying papers recite that Earl C. Loudenslager, who resided at 25 Charlotte street, disappeared under such circumstances as to afford reasonable ground to believe that he is dead. He was one of a party of five hunters that left the boat house at Catskill during the evening of November 11. Later cries were heard from the river and the next day the overturned boat was found. Bodies of three of the hunters already have been recovered, but Loudenslager's body has not yet been found.

The will disposes of an estate valued at over $5,000 real property and over $5,000 personal. To the wife is given $2,500 and a yearly income of $1,500 from the balance of the estate, which is placed in trust. At the death of the wife the residuary estate is divided between testator's mother, Mary V. Loudenslager, and sister, Mariam I. Loudenslager, both of Painted Post.

Favors U.S.A.

Indianapolis, Dec. 20 (AP)—Herbert F. Liedlander, 36, German sailor from Danzig, in municipal court on a charge of illegal entry into the United States, told Judge John L. McNelis: "If I'm sent back to Danzig, I'll find some way to come back here. I'd rather die than go back. You can't talk to your best friend without fear of being thrown into a concentration camp." He will be taken to New York for a hearing before immigration authorities.

Ex-Cowgirl 'Sore' At Loss of Trigger Touch, Spouse Glad

Pittsburgh, Dec. 20 (AP)—A former Texas cowgirl with blazing red hair is disgusted with the sudden loss of her trigger touch just when she wanted most to do her best.

Irate Mrs. Martha Harrison's target was her 32-year-old errand boy, "Tex," but her aim was spoiled and she's not at all happy about it. What's more, this fiery half of the "Ginger and Tex" radio team vows there'll be a next time and "I won't miss."

Mrs. Harrison whipped a revolver from her pocket book and blazed away at her husband in the county detective bureau last night. A whistling bullet just missed Harrison's ear. Detectives disarmed the screaming woman after a five-minute struggle.

"What do you want to do that to me for, honey?" asked Harrison, starting to put his arm around his wife.

"Next time," she retorted, "I'll make a better job of it."

She was jailed in default of $10,000 bond on charges of felonious assault and violation of the firearms act.

"I'm sorry I missed him," the woman told astonished Alderman Thomas J. Whalen and County Detective Chief Jerry Deasy.

"I'd rather have him dead than cheating on me."

reported a woman was in the car with "Tex" when he was apprehended.

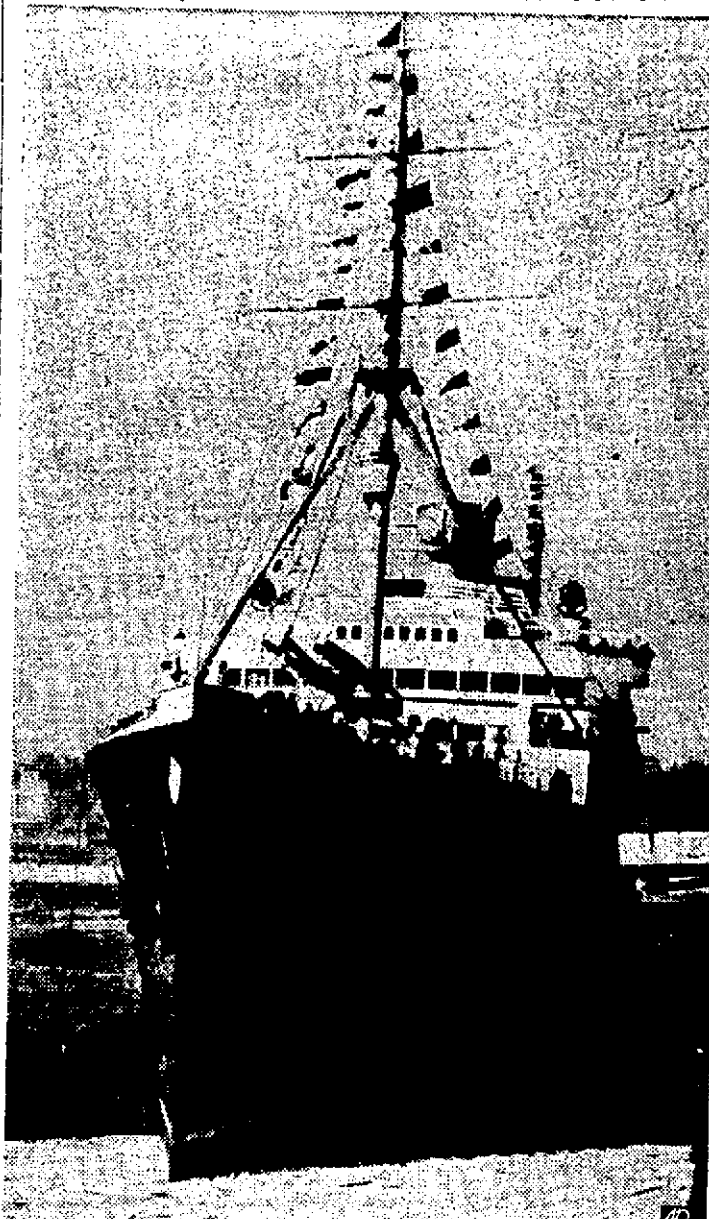

The former cowgirl, claiming her husband had broken her nose, had him picked up on aggravated assault and battery charges.

Sad Christmas

San Francisco, Dec. 20 (AP)—Judge J. E. White mailed Christmas packages to his sister, his niece and her husband in Indianapolis, Ia. Then he received three telegrams. The first said his sister had been killed in an auto accident. The second said his niece had died of injuries. The third told of her husband's death.

'City That Never Was' Has Really Vanished

Sixty years ago Frog Point, the "city that never was," at the head of navigation of the Red river in North Dakota, was a gathering place for hundreds of teamsters, flatboatmen, hunters, trappers, Indian traders, travelers and the representatives of eastern business firms. It was a sort of wilderness metropolis, whose inhabitants were chiefly transients, dwelling in shacks, frame hotels and, sometimes, in tents.

Yet, the reputation of this crossroads of the backwoods spread to every part of the American continent and to Europe. Britons thought of Frog Point as a thriving city with broad avenues, tall spires and humming industries, outranked only by Liverpool there. To speak of Frog Point in the cities along the Atlantic seaboard or abroad summoned before the imagination pictures of marching armies, boundary police and all the goings and comings of a great commercial mart. This reputation made it a mecca for foreign travelers, but their disillusionment failed to dim its reputation while its importance continued.

Writers for the American Guide, the government's forthcoming travel handbook, have been preparing an article on the forest city with the aid of the old timers. In contrast to the spectacular "boom" towns of the mining districts, Frog Point owed its burst of affluence to a low water period which made navigation above it impossible. Freight hauled over land made connections here with the Hudson's Bay company boat, the International, and with the Selkirk, of which James J. Hill, the "Empire Builder," was past owner. A Hudson's Bay company trading post was established at Frog Point in 1871 with A. H. Morgan as agent. He remained in charge until 1875, when the post was leased to Robert Ray. Hill was one of the famous figures frequently seen at Frog Point. On one occasion, while traveling from Duluth to Georgetown, he broke through the ice not far from the Point and came near drowning.

Finally, navigation conditions changed. Robert Ray discontinued the trading post, fire wiped out many of the buildings where the backwoodsmen had assembled and held high carnival, the hotel and store keepers closed up and, within a relatively short time, the metropolis of the wilderness had dissipated into a mist of memories as palpable as the phantom city once reared on the site by the imagination of distant peoples. Today, the old Hudson's Bay company buildings, in which the Alfred Torgerson agency is located, survive as the one representative of its ancient glory. Its population has dwindled to 33 people. Even its name has gone—changed to Belmont.

Model Eagle

A bald eagle which served for 28 years as model for the emblem of the United States on coins, currency, bonds and other official federal documents now adorns a wall in the Tampa, Fla., post office. The big mounted bird, whose picture was reproduced on billions of dollars of money and certificates, was presented to post office officials by Col. Frank Burke, former Tampion and executive aid to the chief of the United States secret service. A plaque giving a history of the eagle hangs beneath the cypress roof on which the bird now rests in the post office. It relates that the eagle was captured on Prince William sound, Alaska, and presented to the National Zoological park in Washington. It died in 1911 and was stuffed.

English Regents' 'Exam' Will Be Given in Reverse

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 20 (AP)—New York's high school seniors will be able to get off to a faster start than heretofore in the four-year English Regents' examination next month.

To "save pupils from penalizing themselves," the traditional first question calling for a composition will be placed last as an "experiment," Harold G. Thompson, State Education Department director of examinations and testing, said today.

The test will be in two parts, the first including 50 "objective" questions to be answered directly on the examination paper.

"Then," Thompson added, "the student will be left on his own resources to develop his composition to the best of his ability with the effect of having plenty of time to complete the quiz within the three hour limit."

In former times, he said, many often spent too long on the first question.

Thompson reported 950,000 Regents' papers—some 50,000 fewer than last year—had been printed for use the week of January 22-26.

Nine subjects have been eliminated from Regents coverage since June.

High school physics, geometry, biology and physical geography examinations also have been revised to permit a broader knowledge test.

By limiting the choice, but broadening the scope of questions, he added, educators will cover added material that should have emphasis.

St. James Scout Troop Entertains Wiltwyck Troop

The Boy Scouts of Troop 11 of St. James Church had as their guests at a Christmas party Tuesday night, 20 members of Troop 15, the Scout troop connected with the Wiltwyck School at Esopus.

The visitors were in charge of their scoutmaster, John Oberli, and seemingly enjoyed the festivities of the evening, including a program of songs and "stunts," and a service of refreshments at the close.

Santa Claus also made his appearance and gifts were distributed to both the home and visiting scouts.

Scoutmaster H. E. Freese had delegated active charge of the evening's activities to Patrol Leaders Roy Crosswell and Theodore Barton, who arranged the program, the latter acting as announcer.

One Is Beloved

BY LOUISE PLATT HAUCK

YESTERDAY. Finally convinced that she will be happy with Bob Trenton, Sue hurriedly married him. When they move into their lovely house she is happier than she ever thought she would be.

Chapter 15 Partnerships

"PATSY will divorce Allen one of these days," Bob predicted cheerfully. "She married him for what she could get out of him, and it hasn't proved to be as much as she counted on. Don't worry about him, sweet. By this time next year he'll be free, married to Barbara, maybe."

There was a little silence and then Sue said, a pained note in her voice:

"I'd hate to believe that, Bob!" "But why?" He was honestly surprised. "You don't want the poor guy tied to her for life, do you? There, might be a little idea of losing them. Allen's brimful of paternal instinct."

"He is tied to her, whether he likes it or not; whether there are children or not, Bob." "Oh, come now! You don't believe that—not in this day and age. An unhappy marriage is like a bad promise: better broken than kept."

"But it isn't to be unhappy—always, Bob. I mean—bad marriages can be made into good ones, if people just try hard enough. I mean—in most cases. Of course if a man is unfaithful—deliberately and repeatedly unfaithful—or a wife is not fit to bring up any children there might be—but even then there ought to be years and years of effort before they admit failure."

"You surprise me, Sue! Repeated infidelity! D'you mean me to understand that you—that any woman would forgive infidelity in her husband?"

"I didn't say 'forgive' it, Bob," she answered thoughtfully. "I don't know whether she could or not. I suppose it would depend on many things herself, him, the other woman, the circumstances. But forgiving it is beside the point."

"It's like any other contract, it seems to me," she went on slowly, thinking it out as she talked. "If you enter into a partnership you agree to certain things. It may turn out that you don't like the relationship as much as you expected to, or even your partner, for that matter; but that doesn't release you from your agreement at least until the time is up. And the time never is up in marriage—not till death do you part, anyhow."

"Great Scott! I didn't know I'd married such a little Puritan! There are mighty few people who feel like that, Sue," he went on gravely. "It surprises me that you do. Why, lots of your friends have been divorced—remarried, even. How does it happen that you—"

"Our parents, I suppose, Allen and mine. I was only twelve when Mother died but even then I remember her saying that marriage took a lot of bearing and forebearing to make it a success. And Dad—he was ill a long time, you know. He—talked to us. He told us that no two people had ever been more in love than he and Mother were when they were married but they'd had their stormy times, too. He impressed it on us that a successful marriage has to be built up patiently, day after day."

"Sweet, this is queer talk for—"

"Gold-Digger"

SHE went on as if he had not

"And those people you mentioned just now, Bob—those friends of mine who had a failure of their first marriage and hurried into a second. I've watched them. They don't seem to me to be making a conspicuous success of the next one, either. I suppose if you're a quitter on you will be again—always in fact."

"D'you know, I'm awfully glad we had this talk? It's clarified something for me."

He laughed a little uneasily. "Your thoughts about our marriage, Sue? Your determination to make the best of it?"

"But she was too much in earnest to share his mirth. I'm going to do my best to help Patsy succeed in her marriage, Bob! Allen—I can count on Allen. I'm going to have Patsy out here, give her as happy a time as I can, encourage her to make the best sort of wife to Allen—that sort of thing!"

"His arms tightened about her. 'Who but my wife could be so forgiving to the girl that practically turned her out of her own home? If you want my honest opinion, it won't do the slightest good. Patsy is a gold-digger if I ever saw one. But I'll back you up in whatever you try to do, sweet Sue!'"

She pulled his face down to hers, rubbing her soft cheek affectionately against his.

"That's what keeps my heart singing all day long," she informed him. "Knowing that whatever I do, whatever silly mistakes I'll make—and I'm bound to make some, Bob!—you'll be there all ways, backing me up in what I try to do!"

Patsy responded with alacrity to the overture of her young sister-in-law. She was enthusiastic over the house, inclined to presume on its generous hospitality. But Sue gave no signs of resenting her frequent calls. Patsy was asked to many of the charming luncheons the bride gave in the fall. Patsy and Allen were guests at the most of the dinner parties.

"Look here, Sue, you don't have to do this, you know," Allen urged. "Ask us every time you entertain. I mean. It's—it's mighty forgiving of you to ask us at all, considering—well, considering all things! Patsy, of course, is thrilled to death every time she comes here; quotes you, tries to fix her table like yours that sort of thing!"

If Sue remembered how the older girl had scorned those same ideas and decorations when they were put forth in her brother's home, she gave no sign.

"I'm glad, Allen," she replied simply, and she was glad. She thought that Allen was looking better, less careworn these days. She seized every opportunity to talk to Patsy as though his happiness were paramount in his wife's mind as Bob's was in her own.

Patsy was apt to listen with rather a fixed smile.

Measuring Love

"Oh, come now, Sue," she drawled one day when she and Barbara Webb were the only guests. "You must admit that a man who gives you what Bob does deserves more from a woman than well, Allen, does, for example. Look at this room—they had finished luncheon and were back in the big livingroom which ran the length of the house. 'There's not a prettier place in town than this is. And it's not just what Ted Wilmington chose, either. You told me yourself that most of the furniture—the pieces that gave it an air, the most expensive pieces—Bob picked out himself. When a man lavishes hand-carved Italian chairs on his wife, and tapestry worth several thousand dollars a foot, he'll never lack for the right kind of appreciation.'"

Allen's sister flushed resentfully. "It happens that Bob is a comparatively rich man and can afford such things. Allen can't. You know nothing would give him more pleasure than to buy you anything you want if he could, Patsy! And surely a wife doesn't measure her love for her husband by his income. I hate to have you even imply such a thing."

Patsy ran an appreciative hand over the brocade of her chair. "The income helps, my dear! I could condone a lot of faults in a man who gave me a house like this."

Sue did not answer. It was Barbara who said hotly: "Allen's a million times too good for you, Patsy! And you have exactly the home that Sue came from, you know. I guess if it was good enough for her, it ought to satisfy you!"

The long gray eyes narrowed maliciously. "It would satisfy you, Babs, dear; is that what I'm expected to understand? Too bad Allen had the bad taste to fall in love with a mere secretary instead of the socially prominent Miss Webb! Sorry, Sue. It's just my peevish bad manners."

Sue said tactfully: "Barbara and Forest and Allen and I all grew up together, you know. Naturally she wants Allen to be happy. How is Marie?" She changed the subject decisively. "I've not seen her for a long time."

"There's an easy enough way to remedy that!" But immediately her tone became more conciliatory. "It was no part of her plan to offend young Mrs. Trenton. Sue, from a liability, had become an asset. The withdrawal of her share of the household expenses had left a larger gap than Patsy liked to think of. Sue's evident desire to be friendly with her brother's wife was not to be under-rated. There were gifts in Sue's power now: gifts of new gowns, expensive perfumes, even of a car if she chose to buy one for her brother."

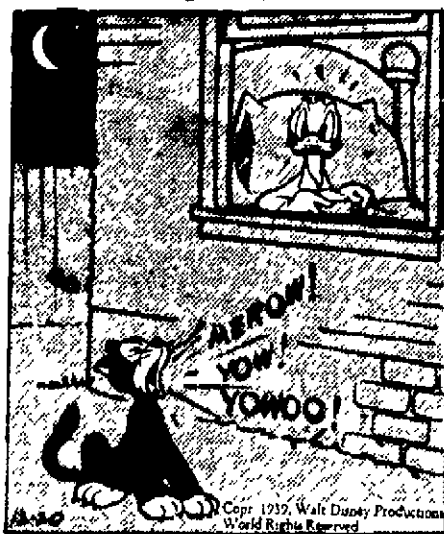

Not just yet, of course, she reflected; not while Sue could hardly escape the recollection of that June day when Patsy had taken out the girl's coupe without her knowledge and practically wrecked it. One must give her time to forget that incident, and the quarrel that had followed.

So now she hastened to erase the impression of her acid little speech about Marie.

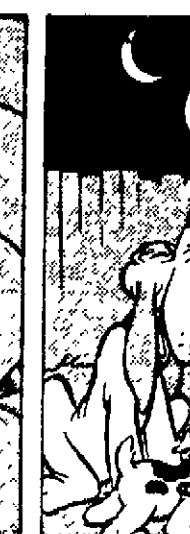

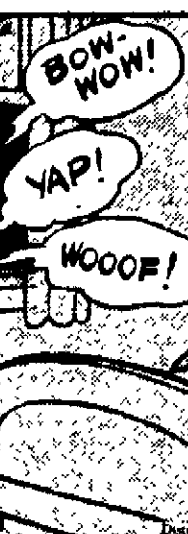

"As a matter of fact, Marie has a new man in tow. Don't ask me who he is for I don't know myself! Only know," she went on shrewdly, "that she's forever borrowing my best clothes without asking me. It's a nuisance, too. I'm taller than Marie and the little rascal actually had the nerve to shorten a dress of mine last week. She explained it was a dire emergency and she simply had to rifle my wardrobe." She added with a careless air: "Allen will have to buy me another, that's all. He says he can't afford it because his insurance comes due this month. But I tell him he can hardly expect me to go in rags because of that!"

Rich Father—There's no sense in teaching the boy to count over 100. He can hire accountants to do his bookkeeping.

Professor—Yes, sir, but he'll want to play his own game of golf, won't he?

Tomorrow

It's a fair question to ask "What are you going to do with tomorrow?"...If you use it to point to your yesterdays, you will be wasting it...But if you use your tomorrow to push onward, to grow bigger, to reach upward, the day can mean much to you.

Hornpuff—When I marry I shall lead a pretty girl and a wonderful cook to the altar.

Miss Flatt—Heavens! That would be bigamy!

Customs vary with times and places.

Mistress—How did it happen, Mary, that you never saw finger bowls before? Didn't they use them in the last place you worked?

Mary—No, mums, they mostly washed themselves before they came to the table.

A man declares that he detectors are not new as most married men can tell you he has lived with one.

Boss—Where have you been? Clerk—Having my hair cut.

Boss—You know you can't have your hair cut on my time.

Clerk—Well, it grew on your time, didn't it?

Boss—Not all of it.

Clerk—Well, I ain't had it all cut off.

Friend—Every night when I come home late my wife is always waiting up to ask where I've been.

Man—Does it make her mad when you tell her?

Friend—I don't know. I never tell her.

We are all trying to get ahead but there is little advantage in getting ahead on the wrong road.

A great many of the June graduates who expected to set the world on fire began by lighting another cigarette.

Clara was sitting in the movies with her girl friend when the trailer of an animal film was put Clara—Heavens! I quite forgot to get my husband's supper!

One Little Negro Boy (to another)—How old are you?

Second Negro Boy—Ah don't know, four or five.

First Negro Boy (amazed at his ignorance)—Don't you know?

Second Negro Boy—No.

First Negro Boy (having an inspiration)—Has you ever thought about women?

Second Negro Boy—No.

First Negro Boy—Then you is four.

You don't have to go to college to get some forms of practical education.

The Highbrow Visitor—I must congratulate you on your daughter's brilliant paper on "The Influence of Science on the Principles of Government."

The Lowbrow Father—Yes, and now that's off her mind I hope she will begin to study the influence of the vacuum-cleaner on the carpet.

To Hold Party

Members of Woodstock Unit, 1026, American Legion Auxiliary will hold a children's Christmas party on Wednesday afternoon, December 27, from 2 to 4 o'clock, in the Legion rooms. Children of Legion and Auxiliary members and of those men and women eligible to membership in the organization are invited to attend. There will be games, refreshments and gifts for all.

Toddlers generally like pull-toys and blocks. Different colored cubes, about two inches square, that have different sounds when shaken seem to intrigue them. Most toddlers also love clappers.

Loyal Workers Class Holds Annual Christmas Party

The Loyal Workers Class of Clinton Avenue Methodist Church held its annual Christmas party in Epworth parlors Monday evening with 35 members and friends attending. A dinner was served under the supervision of the president, Mrs. Walter Hyatt, and her committee. The rooms were appropriately decorated.

A novel entertainment of songs was presented by Mrs. George Lawrence, a card with a song was cut in three pieces and the three drawing the corresponding pieces had to sing the song together. "Silent Night" was well sung by Mrs. Minnie Smith and Walter Hyatt accompanied by Mrs. Arthur Ostrander.

Those in charge of decorations were: Edna Snyder, Nettie Taft, Neale Krom, Nettie Lasher and Mrs. George Flicker.

Mrs. Hyatt presented the teacher, Mrs. Flicker, with a gift from the class. Mrs. Hicks and Mrs. Wood were remembered with baskets of fruit. All present received a gift.

Aided by the proper tools and equipment, every eleven men in American automobile factories are responsible for the production of 100 new cars a year.

Town of Esopus Public Health Nursing Report

Following is the annual report of the Public Health Nursing Committee, town of Esopus, for the year ending December, 1939:

It was a great pleasure to get up this report, you have all worked so hard and accomplished so much. A good part of our first year was spent in organizing our sub-committees and trying out ways and means of doing the work. Our second year has been devoted to the work with the following results:

In February we visited the Highland Health Center. Mrs. Richards, the town of Lloyd nurse, gave a very interesting report of an average day's work and Mrs. Callahan, the president of their committee gave a short history of the committee's 18 years' existence. There were guests from the towns of Ulster, Shawangunk, Gardiner and Plattekill. Our committee held a demonstration meeting. Dr. Ingraham and Miss Irving each gave a short talk on public health work.

On February 24th we held our annual card party in the Ulster Park Grand Hall. Although it was a very cold night over 200 people attended. The net proceeds enabled us to carry our work much further than we had anticipated. Mrs. Paul Bailey of Rifton was the chairman of the card party committee.

In June we moved the Clinic to the permanent quarters provided for it by the town board. We are very grateful to the board of the Methodist Church of Port Jervis for allowing us to use its hall for our first years and a half.

In September Mrs. LeFever and I attended the meeting of the nursing committees' presidents. At this meeting final plans were made for the regional meeting held in October. We also appointed a committee to go to Albany to ask the State Department of Health to furnish a substitute for Miss Ploss, who is leaving us in January. We were fortunate enough to receive the promise of another nurse.

On October 26th, the regional meeting was held at the Governor Clinton Hotel. The morning session was devoted to round-table discussions of the various problems of the town committees. Representatives were present from the towns of Shawangunk, Rochester, Shandaken, Ulster, Plattekill, Gardiner and Esopus. We have compiled reports of these groups and they make as fine a handbook for lay committee work as one could find anywhere. Mr. Netter of the Freeman and Mrs. Marion Bulard of the Ulster County News spoke to us on how to write newspaper publicity.

During the year we have provided four dozen bottles of cod liver oil which the nurse has distributed to 30 different families. Seven obstetrical bundles have been used for home deliveries. We have paid the hospital bills for five tonsillectomies performed on children living in our township. We have assisted at two diphtheria toxoid and vaccination clinics at which 45 children received treatment. We have equipped our new clinic quarters and I hope any of you who have not visited them will do so.

The transportation committee has brought mothers and babies to each monthly consultation clinics throughout the year. They have also taken patients to orthopedic and venereal disease clinics in Kingston. We also have dental consultation on alternate months. Miss Bailey is chairman of the dental committee and is doing an excellent piece of work. A prenatal clinic is also held monthly for expectant mothers.

During the year we have received the following gifts: 1 antepartum table, Dr. Elizabeth Parsons; 1 large table, Mrs. Percy Mott; 1 small table, Mrs. William Schwegel; 1 baby crib, Mrs. Alexander Smith; 2 small tables, Mrs. Theodor Oxholm; 1 screen, 1 flannel blanket, 2 yards dress material, Mrs. Ralsey Mott.

The blanket was made into six baby saques for use at the clinic. The dress material was made into five dresses to be given away at Christmas.

Miss Petroff left us this fall to take a course in public health nursing at New York University. We regret her loss very much. Miss Ploss is also leaving us in January to study at Columbia University. We owe her a standing vote of gratitude for all she has done for us in the two years of our existence. She has been a faithful and devoted guide and a constant inspiration to us all. We wish her the the greatest success in the advancement of her work.

We are deeply appreciative of the continued help and support that we receive from our health officer, Dr. G. W. Ross, and from Dr. F. A. Johnston, also from Dr. Elizabeth Parsons.

Our supervisor, Mr. Howe, and the members of our town board have visited our clinics and are in full sympathy with our work.

I feel we have come a long way in our second year and I am sure that under our new president we will go much further.

Respectfully submitted,
MARY L. OXHOLM.

Non-Support Charge

John Malsheimer, 42, of Brown Station, was arrested there Tuesday by Sergeant Cunningham and Trooper Kelly, on a charge of non-support of a minor child. He was held at the Ulster county jail pending arraignment before the county judge of Suffolk county.

This aerial picture shows a black smoke column rising from the burning German raider Admiral Graf Spee after it was scuttled by the German crew at Montevideo.

Reverses Decision

New York, Dec. 20 (AP)—The appellate division of the Supreme Court yesterday reversed the conviction of Mrs. Otilia Gordon, 61, a nurse, on kidnapping charges and ordered her release from the New York State Reformatory for women at Bedford, N. Y. Mrs. Gordon was sentenced April 2, 1938, to 20 years to life after being convicted of abducting Mrs. Anna Johnson, 56, of Selden, Long Island, a year earlier and spiriting her away from her home to a Brooklyn institution. The appellate division, in an unanimous decision, ruled that "there is no proof that Mrs. Johnson was confined at the institution against her will" and held that a conviction for kidnapping "is not warranted."

Says He Banked Checks

Newburgh, N. Y., Dec. 20 (AP)—A Newburgh grocer has testified at the fraud trial of Welfare Superintendent John L. Sloan he received and banked welfare checks for relief food orders he never filled. Morris Shafter said yesterday he gave the amounts involved to Joseph Friedman, another grocer who is awaiting sentence on a guilty plea of participation in alleged relief food order frauds. The prosecution alleges Sloan and Friedman put some relief orders through the Shafter store because Friedman's relief business was "too big."

whose advertisements appear on this page
Show you how to get most for your money when you choose a Record Playing Instrument
Now that everyone wants to hear both records and radio you should know just what the name RCA VICTROLA means

READ THE STORY THESE PICTURES TELL!

Because music is a universal language the Victor Dog is the most famous trademark in the world. This is the natural result of the fact that for more than 40 years the Victor Dog has been known all over the globe as the sign of good music, accurately recorded on Victor Records, faithfully reproduced and available at moderate cost to millions everywhere.

The Victor name was applied to phonographs as "VICTROLA." Exact purchasers bought millions of VICTROLAS. The famous orthophonic Victrolas of 1925 stimulated the feeling that no home is complete without recorded music. Yet today's RCA Victor and Victor Higher Fidelity Records, far surpass previous achievements.

When the Radio Corporation of America became associated with the Victor Talking Machine Company, the brilliant research men of RCA Laboratories joined their skill with that of Victor scientists. Radio principles improved records and reproduction. As a symbol of this advance, two great names were joined—Victrola became RCA VICTROLA.

RCA Laboratories constantly develop new ideas. Sound reproduction experience of the National Broadcasting Company makes its contribution. Now you can buy at modest prices, RCA Victor's of a perfection only dreamed of by Victor pioneers. As a gift there is nothing finer than an RCA Victor—the gift that keeps on giving.

Don't Let "Nerves" Undermine Your Charm

Meet Little Upsets Radiantly Nervous, high-strung, she can't stand the little upsets of normal life. Her husband brings a friend home for pot luck, a cleaner is late with a dress—and she could scream!

Such extreme edginess is a warning signal. Nerves allowed to become unstrung, raw, may soon make any sort of existence a form of torture.

What is needed often is a change in activity, perhaps in diet. And when nerves are understood life may become pleasant indeed, for the successful neurotic is more colorful, charming than placid types. Upsets, shocks? You take them in your stride once a healthful vitality is gained.

So, if you have strained your nerves by dashing from one thing to another all day, try relaxing and doing nothing. If you work at a desk, play badminton or ping-pong in the evening.

And check your diet. Lack of calcium may cause irritability, so drink milk, eat cheese to be sure you get your share.

To outwit your "nerves" enjoy life, see our 32-page booklet, "A Well-known physician explains underlying physical and mental causes of insomnia, fatigue, irritability, other nerve troubles. Gives correct diet, body care. Send 10c in coin for your copy of OVERCOMING 'NERVES' AND EVERY-DAY HEALTH PROBLEMS to Kingston Daily Freeman, Home Service, 635 Sixth Ave., New York, N. Y. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS and the NAME of booklet.

It is estimated, from various government reports, that of the 1,659,000,000 eggs produced in New York state in 1938, about 15 per cent was used on farms for eating and hatching.

MODES of the MOMENT

By ADELAIDE KERR

She's dressed for the family Christmas dinner in a frock of mauve blue wool whose full skirt is attached in scallops. She covers its front with a big big necklace of gold filigree, set with amethysts, and wears brown accessories to match her marten jacket.

BLOUSE AND SKIRT FOR KIDDIES

MARIAN MARTIN

PATTERN 9214

Even the "small fry" know that blouses in skirts head the fashion parade. In pattern 9214, Marian Martin has designed a jaunty two-piece that's unusually easy to stitch up under the Sew Chart's directions. The waist is built for action, with bloused fullness below the smart yokes at front and back. Trim bands finish off both the long and short sleeve styles. The skirt has eight gores and a wide, button-trimmed waistband. Make both pieces in bright matching fabric, or have the skirt in navy wool or rayon; the blouse perhaps in printed crepe.

Pattern 9214 may be ordered only in girl's sizes 6, 8, 10, 12 and 14. Size 10, skirt, requires 1 1/4 yards 54 inch fabric; long sleeve blouse, 1 1/4 yards 39 inch fabric; short sleeve version, 3 yards 35 inch fabric.

PSALM 23

The Lord is my shepherd. I shall not want. He maketh me to lie down in green pastures: he leadeth me beside the still waters. He restoreth my soul: he leadeth me in the paths of righteousness for his name's sake. Yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no evil: for thou art with me; thy rod and thy staff they comfort me. Thou preparest a table before me in the presence of mine enemies: thou anointest my head with oil, my cup runneth over. Surely goodness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life: and I will dwell in the house of the Lord for ever.

PATTERN 6189

Author of "Etiquette," "The Personal Side of a House," "The Blue Book of Social Usage," etc.

Visiting Cards: 1939

Dear Mrs. Post: Visiting card formalities have gone a long way since I was young, and I know my daughter is right in saying, "Relax, Mother, put the cards away; this is 1939." I am first to agree that many of yesterday's mechanical gestures are out of key today, but in their time most of them served a real purpose, which is difficult for our daughters and sons to believe. What I'd like to have you write is something definite about the times when cards should still be used in addition to the strictly modern custom of writing invitations on them.

Answer: Apart from diplomatic and official circumstances, their special uses today are: (1) to be left when paying a first visit upon strangers; (2) to be left on you by the strangers who return your visit; (3) to be left at the house of a friend or an acquaintance where there is illness or where there has been a death. In the first case "To inquire," and in the second "Deepest sympathy" is written on your card. (4) to be sent with presents and with flowers.

Smaller Portions Next Time! Dear Mrs. Post: Isn't it unnecessarily considerate of a hostess to call attention to the fact that a guest hasn't eaten very much? The other day I had taken larger portions than I could eat and when I put down my knife and fork there was still considerable food on my plate. "Are you ill? Was something wrong with the food? Shall I get you something else?" I was asked all those questions and was so embarrassed I wanted to drop down under the table.

Answer: One should not make remarks about what a guest has not eaten unless she (or he) has refused everything at table. In this case one might ask, "Is there something I can get you to eat?" But even so, one shouldn't make a fuss about it. At the present moment, most people eat very little and so many people are on diets that beyond asking a guest if there is something one might provide, one says nothing.

A Red Dress

Dear Mrs. Post: My son was married recently and as the wedding was in the evening I wore my very best evening dress, which is red trimmed with really beautiful gold costume jewelry. I've since heard that some of the bride's family thought I was very unsuitably dressed. Will you please tell me what was wrong with my dress.

Answer: I see nothing wrong at all with a red evening dress, especially this year when "jipstick red" is the smartest of colors, and no dress is seemingly complete without gold costume jewelry. Maybe it wasn't the color that was questioned. It may have been the way it was made. Maybe it was cut out too low to wear in church. If not, then I can't imagine why it was not proper as well as attractive. (Released by The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

Heywood Broun Planned To Speak in Kingston

Heywood Broun, well known columnist, who died in New York city Monday following an attack of pneumonia, was to have spoken in Kingston early in January, under sponsorship of the Lions Club. Warren F. Smith of the Lions said that Mr. Broun had agreed to come to Kingston and speak for the benefit of the Lions fund for the blind and the date for his visit here had been set for January 10. Arrangements had been made through Charles E. Gradwell, a friend of Mr. Broun's.

Van Winkle Case Opens in Court

A foreclosure action brought by Dr. J. R. Hasbrouck against Harold E. Van Winkle, involving the Van Winkle property at Stone Ridge, was taken up for trial this morning before Justice Francis Bergan in supreme court. The action is being tried without a jury.

Dr. Hasbrouck seeks to foreclose a $1,000 mortgage held against the Van Winkle property, which formerly was a part of the Hasbrouck property, on the grounds that under the terms of the mortgage which was given at the time of the purchase, December 5, 1925, he was to receive $1,600 for the land, which he sold to Van Winkle.

At the time of the purchase it is claimed a price of $1,600 was set for the land and $600 was paid down with a mortgage for $1,000 being given. Under the terms of the mortgage it is alleged by the plaintiff that if Mr. Van Winkle did not build a house of at least $7,000 value on the premises within ten years the balance of $1,000 was to be paid but if the house was built within the ten-year period then the $1,000 mortgage was to be cancelled.

The late Virgil B. Van Wageningen represented the parties at the time. On the present law suit A. J. Cook and Francis T. Murray appear for Dr. Hasbrouck and Judge Joseph M. Fowler for Mr. Van Winkle.

Prior to swearing the witnesses counsel opened the case with a statement of the facts of the case. Mr. Cook held that the case was not a "penalty action."

In his opening Judge Fowler said the case hinged on the construction placed on the language of the parties on surrounding circumstances. He held that the plaintiff is stopped under the law from recovery and spoke to the court of "surrounding circumstances" in the case which probably will be developed as the defense proceeds.

Plaintiff's counsel said that at the time of the deed and mortgage being given Dr. Hasbrouck and Mr. Van Winkle were friends and neighbors, that Mr. and Mrs. Van Winkle lived with his mother but desired a home of their own. They asked Dr. Hasbrouck to sell land to them for erection of a house but he was not desirous of doing so but finally because of friendship, agreed to do so. He learned that Van Winkle was not ready to erect the house at the time and a term of five years was mentioned first as the limit during which the house should be erected. When Mr. Van Winkle said he probably could

Lake Hill Woman, 75, Is Found in Mountains

Mrs. Nellie Sickler, 75 year old Lake Hill resident, started out Tuesday afternoon to gather evergreens for Christmas and when she failed to return later in the afternoon an alarm was sounded and State Troopers and deputy sheriffs were asked to aid in a search for her. Volunteers searched for the aged woman who was found about 6 o'clock in the woods where she had prepared to spend the night in the shelter of a ledge.

Mrs. Sickler's son was the one to locate her. She said after she had entered the woods she found she had lost her way and believing she could not find her way out before dark she had prepared to wait in the shelter of a ledge for aid which she knew would come to her.

Apparently none the worse for her experience, the aged woman was returned to her home.

not build in that time the time was extended to 10 years, the plaintiff claims, and the papers were so drawn.

Later Mr. Van Winkle did erect a house on other land and the plaintiff claims he was told by Van Winkle that the house was a temporary one and that it would be used later as a tenant house and that he would build a larger house on the land procured from Dr. Hasbrouck. The house never was built and the law-suit was started to foreclose the mortgage.

VFW Will Hold
Christmas Party
At Elks Quarters

Joyce Schirick Post, No. 1386, Veterans of Foreign Wars, will hold their annual Christmas party on Sunday evening at 8 o'clock. Due to the large number of children that assemble each year to receive toys, candy and fruit, the committee in charge of the Christmas party decided their own home was not large enough to properly take care of the kiddies.

The house committee of the Elks Lodge was contacted and has granted the Vets the use of their large hall so every one attending the party may have a good time with Santa Claus.

The drought seriously affected the farm management plans of a large number of FSA borrowers, and a considerable number of farmers who never before needed the special assistance of the FSA are now requesting it. The drought and other handicaps have put them in such a position that no other credit agency is able to help them. Enough funds are available this year to make all loans to eligible farm families in need, says the state FSA director.

Handling Christmas Mail

By the looks of the racks at the Central Post Office, those stories about the heavy Christmas mail this year are not a bit exaggerated. And, this is only one section of the modern postal center where efficient clerks handle the thousands of communications and packages entrusted to Uncle Sam at this holiday season. Despite the hustle and bustle, however, the postal employees have a smile and it must be for those folks who remembered to do their Christmas mailing early.

Maroon Cagers Whip Saugerties on Village Court by 27-22

Bob Curran Stars For Kingston Five In Exhibition Tilt

Saugerties Throws Scare Into Kiammen—Lindhorst Features on the Rebounds

Kingston High School's undefeated basketball warriors presented Coach G. Warren Kias with his usual Christmas gift last night in Saugerties, turning out a hard-fought 27 to 22 triumph over the cagers of Larry Cahill. Putting the kids on a belated spurt in the second half the Kiammen took the battle and remained undefeated in their three games to date.

Helping to wrap up the present were Bob Curran and Ray Lindhorst. Curran, who is making a habit of passing the Maroon cagers in point-getting, slammed in 12 very helpful markers while Lindhorst, although making but two points, chimed in with a spectacular floor show. In the game which was plenty close throughout, it was Lindhorst who saved the day for Kingston. His performance on rebounds was sensational.

Saugerties Threat

Holding a fairly comfortable margin at the expiration of the first half Kingston's outlook was for another victory in easy fashion. But with the chips down Saugerties found itself and pecked away at the lead and nearly gave the Kiammen a surprise upset of the season. However, the Maroon and White warriors of the court faced and closed the door to further threats.

While Curran, Lindhorst and Flowers paced Kingston to the win Saugerties' main cog was Frank "Beefy" Williams, the 195-pound guard. The robust basketball athlete sparked the Cahillmen in that belated rush. Passing like a demon and cutting in to score at random the big boy nearly upset the Kingston apple cart. Through Williams' outstanding work Saugerties hopped up to be trailing Kingston by only five markers at the end of the third session.

Once again in the fourth and final stanza Saugerties bounced back. But this time Kingston closed in and dampened any thought of a Saugerties victory. With the score still close, too close for G. Warren Kias' benefit, Bob Curran stepped into the fold and thumped in two fields. Both shots incidentally came by way of Ray Lindhorst, who sped the caulkskin to the former Binghamton High star. The Maroon continued to move ahead as Joe Benjamin countered with a pushup. Then one-enters by Bill Strubel and Lindhorst finished Kingston's scoring and also Saugerties' last chance to hang a defeat on Kingston.

Showing bits of improved play the first and second periods, the Maroon cagers stalked out in front in the particular play of Curran, Lindhorst and Harry Flowers. Flowers pushed in eight markers last night and once again proved to be a coming threat for all Kingston opponents. Milt Dubin, swashbuckling guard, was tied to two points both fouls. It was thumped from the fracas the fourth quarter on four personal fouls.

Court Notes

Saugerties and Kingston will resume this feud next Wednesday evening at the municipal auditorium. In the prelude, Saugerties tipped the KHS Jayvees by 19 to 0 on a last minute device by Burns. The basketballers of Coach Tommy Weems are finding the thing a little tough in these early games. Hats off to this Bob Curran. Coming to Kingston Bob has to fit himself into a new style of play and by the way he's been doing, that wasn't such a big job. The last two games now the newcomer has been a big help to the cause of the Kiammen. With an annual Christmas gift in his session now, Coach Kias can't be worrying—at least until his cagers meet some stiff opposition in DUSO League clubs.

Billy Conn—Boxing's 'Glamour Boy'

Conn beat Gus Lesnevich recently in second defense of title he won in July.

BOB TAYLOR, BILLY CONN, JIM CORBETT. Conn's an artful boxer, as was Corbett, and his profile nearly matches Taylor's.

Fans—like Dad, No. 1 admirer—hope Billy can add to his 174 pounds, some day fight Joe Louis, 200-pound heavyweight king.

AP Feature Service

BILLY CONN, light heavy champ, has the features and smile of a matinee idol. He's been compared with film star Bob Taylor and with Jim Corbett, the ring's original handsome Fancy Dan. Irish Conn has been called the boxer with a choirboy's face. Here he is shown in several typical poses. What do you think?

Even the Fancy Dances have to take 'lumps'—see that cut eye?

Collegiate Fans Much Enthused Over Cage Slate

New York, Dec. 20 (AP)—Those satisfied smiles on New Yorkers' faces aren't occasioned wholly by the coming holiday season.

They are due partially to a belief the three metropolitan basketball teams which will play host most often this winter in Madison Square Garden to inter-sectional foes are going to be as violently victorious as they were last year.

The three teams that have to bear the biggest load in the Garden are Long Island University's Blackbirds, winners of 41 straight games; the violets of New York University and St. John's University; and Fordham also play minor roles as hosts in basketball's "big house," but the burden is not on them.

Long Island will be harder to snub than a football bowl bid. And the Blackbirds will be given some terrific inter-sectional competition this year by such cage courtsters as Southern California, Butler, New Mexico Aggies, Michigan State, Duquesne and De Paul of Chicago.

But the Blackbirds have plenty of poise and a corking list of long shot artists. Dolly King, great negro ace, pairs with Simon Lobello and Ossie Schectman to give them a trio of marksmen equal to any in the country.

N. Y. U. Favored

Ranking alongside Clair Bee's Blackbirds in hearts of the home folk are the N. Y. U. Violets, who their admirers stoutly predict will surpass the "Birds at the ranking metropolitan team—eventually.

Given a chance to "spread the odor of crushed Violet" through the Garden are Missouri, Syracuse, Manhattan, St. Francis of Brooklyn, Notre Dame, Fordham, St. John's, Georgetown and C. C. N. Y.

The Violets are fortified by the clever Bob Lewis, regarded by experts as one of the best shots in college ranks, and by Young Ralph Kaplowitz, brother of L. I. U.'s Danny and hailed as one of the finest prospects ever to play for the Violets.

St. John's, always an eastern court colossus, already has gotten away to an auspicious start by whaling four opponents, among them tough St. Peter's of Jersey City and Springfield (Mass.) College.

The Saints will be tested in the "big house" by Colorado U. C. C. N. Y., Temple, Manhattan, N. Y. U. and St. Francis.

City College, where capable Nat Holman reigns, is a shade below hoped-for form, but outside of local opposition will meet only Santa Clara, coast kingpin, in the Garden. City College lost its first engagement there to the tall and terrific Oklahoma Aggies.

Home Color Schemes

Home owners faced with the problem of making old houses look younger may try coloring them with "youthful" colors. This can be done with almost any type of construction. Side walls of wood, brick or stucco may be painted with prints specially prepared for each surface. Roofs may be covered with one of several different types of factory-colored shingles, and color accents may be provided in window blinds and front doors. A popular new exterior color combination consists of light salmon-colored walls, emerald-green roof and a flame-colored front door.

O'Brien Names Players Going From Celtic to Troy, Kingston Game Christmas

President John J. O'Brien of the American Basketball League commenting today on the recent shakeup in the loop revealed the names of the Colonials who have been signed by Troy.

"The personnel of the newly constituted Celtic team at Troy," O'Brien said, "will be Polcha, Kupperberg, Stanton and Moe Frankel of the former combination, and Fleigel, Johnson, Berenson, Kaplan and Reiser who were with Kingston.

"Shabach and Symott of Troy have been acquired by Wilkes-Barre. Fitzpatrick of the Celtics, instead of going to Troy, has been signed by the Jersey Reds and Boardman has been shifted from the upstate lineup to the same club.

"Murphy and Kramer of Kingston are not with any club yet."

The Jersey Reds were permitted by the league at its meeting last Sunday to shift to Kingston. They will meet the Troy combination Christmas night in what is regarded as a real basketball "natural" with the local fans rooting against the Celtics who formerly played under the Kingston banner.

Concerning the New Year's night game, another club besides the New York Jewels may play here as opponents of the Kingston Reds.

Regarding managers, O'Brien announced that Barney Sedran would handle the Troy team, replacing Marty Friedman, who formerly managed the Haymakers, and John "Honey" Russell, coach of Seton Hall, has been engaged to pilot the Wilkes-Barre Barons.

Washington is out of the league.

Threat of Fine Settles Fight

(By The Associated Press)

The man of the hour in the National Hockey League isn't Gordie Drillon of Toronto, who picked up two assists at Boston last night to bring his league-leading scoring totals to 20 points.

Nor is he any of the three members of Boston's "sauerkraut" line, whose two overtime goals gave the Bruins a 3-2 victory over the Maple Leafs and a tie for the league lead.

Nor is he even Dutch Hiller, who banged home two tallies as the New York Rangers outscored the Montreal Canadiens, 5-2.

The real No. 1 man these days is Bill Stewart, the chunky little referee.

Last night, Stewart cooled off the participants in one of this season's liveliest fist fights with just a few words. In the first period of the encounter between the Rangers and Canadiens, Hiller and Phil Watson, of New York, tangled with Lou Trudel and Polly Drouin of Montreal. They wouldn't stop until Stewart warned them they all would be banished from the game and fined $100 apiece, if ## there were any punching done in the penalty box. That settled the matter.

Movies No Proof Says Coach Layden

Columbus, O., Dec. 20 (AP)—Elmer Layden, Notre Dame coach, says motion pictures of a football game "prove nothing except both sides of any argument which might have arisen during the contest."

The mentor of the Fighting Irish, heading through Ohio on a post-season tour of football banquets, said he believed the ever-growing trend toward talking pictures of big-time games was becoming a menace to the sport.

Loses Ring Bout And His Mother

White Plains, N. Y., Dec. 20 (AP)—While George Costulis of Pittsburgh was making himself popular with fight fans in his first appearance at the county center boxing show here last night, announcement of the death of his mother was received by his manager, Lew Brown.

Brown withheld the news from Costulis, whose father had died three and a half months before, until after the four-round engagement, which was won by Costulis' opponent, Eddie Van Alstyne of Ravenna, N. Y., amid thundering boos from the audience of more than 3,500. Costulis had taken the fight to get train fare to Pittsburgh to see his mother who had been reported ill. He took the 10:30 train last night.

In New York, eleven counties were designated as emergency areas in need of special assistance. For the past several weeks, drought sufferers have been receiving loans from the Farm Security Administration. The loans are for a period of 18 months, to cover immediate cash needs for hay, grain, and other feed and feed crops. Other federal agencies are also helping.

Eight States Drafting Plans for New Road

New York, Dec. 20 (AP).—Representatives of eight eastern states began today preparing a plan for a $200,000,000, 400-mile, six-lane Boston-Washington highway.

The conferees said the road, running through a 200-mile-wide area, would skirt metropolitan areas, or pass over them on elevated highways.

The super highway was proposed yesterday by representatives from New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, Delaware and Maryland for presentation to congress.

Details were not elaborated, but conferees proposed the major portion of the cost be borne by the federal government.

native of Yugoslavia and came to America at the age of 14. He lived in Rosendale until 1890 and then removed to Brooklyn where he entered the butcher business and conducted a number of markets for 25 years. Retiring 14 years ago, he built a large home in New Paltz on Route 32 and made his residence there. Surviving are his wife, formerly Lillian Frederick of Brooklyn, five brothers, Mikko, Bernard, Matt, Michael and Albert Dupper; one sister, Mrs. Mary Tonkovic.

The funeral of Anson Van Steenberg, who died Thursday in the Kingston Hospital, was held Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the McLaughlin Funeral Home. The Rev. Frank Seelye, burial was in the family plot in St. Mary's cemetery. Sunday evening, members of the Odd Fellows and Local Order of Moose held ritualistic services at the funeral parlors. Bearers, who were members of the local Carpenters' Union, Aretas Lodge of Odd Fellows and the Local Order of Moose, were David Bush, Edward Shullis, Leonard Stauble, Louis Marrella, Vincent Markie and Fred Weber.

Phoenicia, Dec. 20.—The funeral of James K. DuBois of Ashokan, who died at the home of Mrs. A. P. Loomis, where he had been staying for three years, was held Thursday afternoon from the Brethaupt Funeral Parlor. The Rev. David Weidner of Floral Park, L. I., officiated at the services. The Rev. Pfau, pastor of the Shokan Reformed Church, of which the deceased was an officer, assisted. He had been a deacon and an elder in the church for many years. Mr. DuBois served several years as assessor in the town of Olive. His grandfather who settled in the town of Olive when the clearings were not many and the Indians inhabited the woodlands. He built three stone houses. One of them was in one in which the late J. Waldo Smith lived and one known in later years as the Park House was taken by the city. His grandfather was the means of having the Shokan Dutch Reformed Church founded in old Shokan, now under water.

Funeral from his late residence, James street, Rosendale, Saturday at 9:30 a. m., and at St. Peter's Church at 10 o'clock, where a high Mass of requiem will be offered for the repose of his soul. Interment in St. Peter's cemetery, Rosendale.

RUSSIANS AGAIN BOMB FINNS

This map shows location of new developments in the undeclared Russo-Finnish war, including resumption of bombing raids by Soviet aircraft. (1) Aerial bombardment of Helsinki, Finnish capital; (2) Russian squadron flew over Viipuri, but no damage reported; (3) An unconfirmed report from Stockholm said Russians had broken through to Kemijarvi; and (4) from Copenhagen came reports a Russian motorized army was rolling southward after defeating the Finns at Pitkajarvi.

unit did not mean the area was occupied by enemy forces. An estimated 12,000 Soviet troops were reported pouring into Salmijarvi, Arctic mining area which the Finns desolated before retreating.

The Russian army, however, was said to be erecting hundreds of pre-fabricated houses hastily. From the Norwegian border, Russian campfires were visible along a 100-mile front. Radios blared out entertainment for the soldiers.

Reports that Kuolajarvi and other points along Finland's "waistline" had been occupied in an effort to cut the country in half could not be confirmed officially. In a movement westward, one column was reported as far as Kemijarvi, about one-third of the way across to the Swedish border. Occupation of Rovaniemi would cut off a railroad to the Gulf of Bothnia at Tornio and close off Helsinki's land communications with Sweden.

Russian Report

The Russians reported 12 Finnish airplanes were shot down in the day's aerial encounters.

"A group of ships of the Baltic fleet successfully shelled coastal batteries of the area of Bjorko on the Gulf of Finland, the army communique said.

About 20 Soviet planes dodged behind cloud banks to make the first raid in the Helsinki area since the early days of the war. Air sirens sent capital residents scampering from public buildings into underground shelters. The streets were cleared in three minutes. An all-clear signal was sounded in about 45 minutes.

The return of Helsinki residents from "safe" country areas for the holiday season caused officials to renew warnings against the danger of bombings.

Meanwhile, Jan Sibelius, Finland's patriot-composer, in a statement, expressing gratitude to the United States for sympathy to the Finnish cause, said:

"How well we emerge from the struggle depends in the first instance on ourselves, but when the question is of immense material superiority, our fate depends also in large measure on what those nations do which prize liberty."

Planes and Guns

Paris, Dec. 20 (AP).—Great Britain and France, in the opinion of military observers, favor sending planes and guns—not an expeditionary force—as the more feasible sort of aid to Finland against the Soviet Union.

This despite the fact that these are resources the allies need for their war against Germany.

Geography appeared to be the deciding factor. Planes and their cargoes of guns and ammunition could be flown to Finland. Hazards of the water route and the neutrality of Norway and Sweden would prevent use of the most direct maritime and overland routes.

Finnish circles in Paris anxiously awaited French and British assistance in conformity with the League of Nations' invitation for Finnish aid and ouster of Russia as an aggressor.

They said Finland was confident she could continue her resistance indefinitely, if she could get a quick supply of planes and anti-aircraft and field artillery.

The secretary-general of the league, Joseph A. C. Avenol, was busy today arranging for a committee to coordinate aid to Finland from the allies as well as other league members and non-members. He will go from here to London to continue the work.

He had in preparation a message to non-league nations—which include the United States—urging that they align any assistance with the league's efforts.

Young people of St. James Church will celebrate Christmas eve by conducting a vesper service at 5 p. m., at the church including a pageant written by one of the group. Following the pageant in which a number will take part, three groups including the Intermediate League, the Senior League and the Philomathian Club, will hold a fellowship hour with refreshments and a gift exchange at 7 o'clock.

At 8:30 o'clock the group will go caroling for shut-ins of the church, carrying lanterns and song books as carolers do.

They will return to the church for the midnight communion service which begins at 11 o'clock.

No Comment

Moscow, Dec. 20 (AP).—Soviet newspapers and the radio today ignored the news that American naval planes are being sold to Finland, and no official comment was available.

A private Russian citizen observed: "Just in time to be taken over by the Red army." (United States officials disclosed in Washington yesterday that 44 high-speed fighting planes, being manufactured for the United States navy would be sold to Finland.)

Financial and Commercial

Securities Down In Narrow Trading

Commodities with one or two exceptions moved downward yesterday after their spectacular rise of recent sessions and although the index moved up to a new high for the movement in early trading, profit-taking developed on a wide scale and at the close the index showed a loss of .74 point from Monday. Wheat again as erratic, with prices over a range of five cents a bushel, but the close showed futures off 2 1/2 to 3 1/4 cents a bushel at Chicago. In the cotton market heavy foreign liquidation developed and futures closed down 14 to 25 points. Domestic sugar futures were depressed as traders awaited information regarding the 1940 sugar program. Corn and silk opposed the general trend. For the fifth consecutive day silk advanced the permissible limit of 15 cents a pound.

Securities on the New York Exchange continued their downward movement, with trading narrow and uninteresting, volume being 750,000 shares. Industrials in the Dow-Jones averages lost 29 point, to 148.93; rails dropped .40, to 31.13 and utilities were off .04, to 24.82. International Paper issues were in demand, with the preferred stock making a new high and Westinghouse and Telephone attracted considerable attention as earnings reports were favorable.

As a result of the new tariff agreement between the U. S. and Cuba reducing the tariff on Cuban tobacco to 25 cents a pound, from 40 cents domestic cigar manufacturers set savings of from 45 to $2.50 a thousand cigars.

Forecasts indicate the smallest Argentine wheat crop in years will be the 1939-40, estimated at 4,000,000 metric tons against 9,000,000 metric tons last year.

Detroit Edison yesterday declared a final dividend of $2 out of surplus and net profit. National Cash Register voted 25 cents on common, Endicott-Johnson and Dow Chemical each 75 cents, and Chain Belt pays 25 cents. Winn & Lovell Grocery Co. ordered a special of $1 on Class B common.

John E. Crutcher declared dividend of $1; previous payment $1 on December 23, 1937. Poor & Co. pay 50 cents on Class A stock leaving accumulations of $4.50 a share.

With holiday buying accelerating and selling prices slightly higher, a number of Chicago's leading department stores, including Marshall Field, Goldblatt and Mandel, are expected to show profits for 1939 considerably higher than in the preceding year.

Norfolk & Western R. Y. for 11 months to November 30, shows net income of $27,368,142, or $18.86 a common share, vs. net of $17,374,142, or $11.75 a share in the like 1938 period. ## New York, Dec. 20 (AP).—The stock market spurted a little today and leaders worked ahead by fractions to a point or more.

Trading was lazy at the outset but speeded up as the session wore on. As the final hour approached prices were at about their best.

Transfers were at the rate of about 1,000,000 shares.

Brokers pointed out it is an exchange tradition that stocks move ahead just before Christmas, but added traders were still too timid of the next few weeks to plunge in very heavily.

Foreign markets, irregular at first, steadied at the finish. Commodities showed declining tendencies and bonds were mixed.

Resistant were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, General Motors, Chrysler, Standard Oil of New Jersey, U. S. Rubber, Montgomery Ward, Sears Roebuck, Douglass Aircraft, Consolidated Aircraft, American Telephone & Western Union, Anaconda, Dow Chemical, Celanese, Dresser Mfg., I. J. Lewis and International Mercantile Marine.

Aiding sentiment for merchandise shares were reports pre-Christmas retail trade was picking up in all parts of the country and was generally better than that of last year. Stores in industrial centers especially were doing good business.
